HOOVER TELLS LEGION BONUS PAYMENT WOULD RETARD RECOVERY

President Hoover Wednesday sounded a warning note to assembled Legionnaires at their national convention in Portland, Ore., pointing out that immediate cash payment of the bonus "would be a fatal threat to the entire program of recovery".

SIKESTON STANDARD

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 20 | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 16, 1932 | NUMBER 101

THE EDITOR SAYS—

At 1:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Glenn Gentry, at the Emergency Hospital, is unconscious and grows weaker. Five weeks or more of intense suffering, she ought to live and wanted to live. All that physicians and surgeons could do, the prayers and encouragement of friends failed and Death is at the door. A splendid little woman to pass away leaving four small children who need a mother's care. She was a believer and a Christian, who did not fear death but longed to live. It grieves us to think of the days of suffering she went through and grieves us that we could not help her when she asked for it. May the Lord receive her soul.

We wish to congratulate Judge Kelly, sitting on the bench at Jackson last week, for sending a drunken car driver to the penitentiary for two years. We wish, also, to congratulate Prosecuting Attorney Dalton of Cape Girardeau County for pushing the case for all it was worth. Now, we would like mighty well to see Prosecuting Attorney Montgomery of Scott County show the same vigor in like cases as the penitentiary is the place for such birds, and the only way to stop drunken drivers.

After weeks and weeks of watchful waiting the strap that holds the flimsy dress of "Miss America" on the billboard, opposite The Standard office, still holds, though one flap of the dress front has given away revealing the bare board. Another disappointment.

The Republican presidential candidate and administration does not seem to stand ace high with the Legion Boys of the land. Whether the President was right or wrong in calling out Federal troops to evict bonus marchers, Legionnaires feel that a great injustice has been done to their buddies and they'll not forget it.

It is pretty good evidence of how the Republican leaders view the general political situation when they can be cheered up by the report that "Pennsylvania looks more favorable".

Senator Walcott presiding over the Republican State Convention in Connecticut backed up President Hoover's stand on the dry law, and the party then proceeded to renominate Senator Bingham on the wet plank in the Democratic platform. Republican leaders are back to their old formula this year: "Anything to fool the people".

President Hoover says people must understand issues and from the news from Maine they do. The people understand that Mr. Hoover's Administration has done practically nothing for the farmer, the unemployed and the small business man, but for corporations, banks and railroads has gone the limit.

Yes, Doctor, we received the word you sent us by another person and we are not going to do it. If you would behave yourself and keep out of jail, you would not get your name in the paper in an unpleasant way, and, besides, why don't you deliver your own messages?

The United States is asking Manchuria to put down banditry in that country just because one of our diplomatic agents was robbed while playing golf—and that is another joke.

Sometime when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, we believe will get pickled, go home and eat every dern bit of lettuce in the ice box, all the mayonnaise and thousand island dressing we can find and otherwise raise thunder!

The Republican Spellbinders and Big Guns had better be handing out some real facts that the voters will believe will give them relief instead of attempting to ridicule the utterances of Governor Roosevelt. They have been promising relief for the past three years and still Old Prosperity has not been coaxed from around the corner. The vote in Maine has made them desperate and even the President seems to be alarmed and is urging renewed ffforts to convince voters that he is the only salvation for the country.

Unless somebody kills us before Sunday, we'll be sixty-nine years of age and don't care who knows it.

THIRD LOW FARE EXCURSION TO ST. LOUIS ANNOUNCED

A low rate excursion fare of $1 has been announced from Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missour points to St. Louis for September 24th and 25th, movement to be handled by special trains. This will be the third excursion run from this territory into St. Louis the two previous handling approximately 10,000 people.

One of the big features of the day for the excursionists who make this trip will be the doubleheader played between the Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates. The trains will arrive in St. Louis early in the morning and excursionists will have ample time to reach the ball park before the games begin.

A record crowd is expected and all arrangements are being made to care for them.

WOMAN IS POLICE JUDGE IN CHAFFEE

Chaffee, September 13.—Mrs. E. D. Preston, justice of the peace of Kelso Township, has been appointed by Mayor L J. Heyman to temporarily fill the place of Judge C. F. Spann, who is in Southeast Missouri Hospital at Cape Girardeau, recuperating from an injury suffered in a fall recently. Mrs. Preston has been justice of the peace for five years, and is well adapted for the office.

"MULE" CAUSES DOWNFALL OF TWO HORSE TRADERS

Morley, September 15.—A number of horse traders encamped in the local park Sunday imbibed too freely of white mule and disturbed the peace and tranquillity of the community until it was necessary to call officers to re-establish peace.

Two of the offenders were fined $50 and costs Monday morning.

Fellow Citizens Fail to Bestow Ordinary Rites On Slain Negro Thief

The singing of songs and the preaching of two or three-hour sermons were strangely lacking Tuesday afternoon when Willie "Red" Walker was buried in Sunset Cemetery here. "Red", a negro 36 years old, died here Monday morning about 9:30 o'clock of gunshot wounds inflicted by Lloyd Tate, Marston Deputy Sheriff and Deputy Constable, who drew first when "Red" resisted arrest. Officer Tate informed H. J. Welsh, local undertaker, who handled the case, that he carried a warrant for Walker when he went to a residence three miles southeast of Marston Saturday afternoon. Earlier in the day officers had found articles identified as property stolen from a Marston home in a cabin occupied by the negro and his companion, Robert Brown. Brown submitted to arrest. Walker resisted when Tate sought to arrest him for questioning.

Negro funerals are usually more or less spectacular, but Willie "Red" Walker died ingloriously and met with a strange aloofness even in death by his fellow citizens.

Miss Mag Tanner will please clip this article and call at The Standard office for a box of Post's bran flakes.

SUTTON BROS. OFFER GROCERIES AND HARDWARE AT NEAR COST PRICES IN REMODELING SALE

Once in a great while Sutton Brothers Hardware and Cash Grocery, operated by the brothers, Jake and Jeff, offer something out of the ordinary. Their annual General Foods demonstration is such an event looked forward to by many housewives. In this issue of The Standard, Jake and Jeff offer a sale extraordinary. The interior of the building is to be remodeled, and in order to clear stocks, build up a cash reserve and to facilitate the moving about of a huge stock, the two brothers decided to stage a cash only, low profit sale and move the goods.

Thousands of circulars and a large advertisement this week announce the sale to start Saturday, continuing until September 24.

Seasonable and staple stock items especially in the hardware department have been marked down to present day replacement cost, representing in many cases an actual loss over purchase price. The grocery department will tie up with this remodeling sale in that hundreds of items used every day are offered at reduced figures.

MOREHOUSE OFFICERS WAGE WAR ON DRUNKS AND 'LEGGERS SUNDAY

Morehouse, September 14.—City Marshal O. M. Headlee and Wm. "Snowball" James of this city declared war on drunks and bootleggers here Sunday. The result was a roundup of police characters, out-of-town visitors, and occasional drinkers who had dropped in for a sociable afternoon and night. It also accounted for a major part of the activities in Justice Court Monday morning.

Those who paid fines included Dr. Stanley J. Tilghman of Sikeston, charged with being drunk and disorderly; "Slim" Curtis, Raymond Towery, J. T. Parris, Harry Hunter, Paul James, Arthur Shipman, Gassie Cline and Odis Hicks, all of Morehouse, and Mr. Penson of Pharris Ridge.

FIRST LOCAL GRID GAME WITH MATTHEWS NIGHT OF SEPT. 23

All home games of the Sikeston high school football squad will be played under the glare of the floodlights this year. The equipment has been installed and everything is in readiness for the first game, September 23, with Matthews. All games will start at 7:30 p. m.

Sikeston has six games at home and three away from home. The schedule is as follows:

SEPTEMBER—
23—Matthews at Sikeston (night)
30—Portageville at Sikeston (night).
OCTOBER—
7—Charleston at Sikeston (night).
14—Dexter at Dexter
21—Poplar Bluff at Sikeston (night).
28—Chaffee at Chaffee (night)
NOVEMBER—
4—New Madrid at Sikeston (night).
11—Perryville at Sikeston (night).
24—Charleston at Charleston

Coach W. E. 'Peg' Mahew has about 30 candidates out for football and expects several more to be out in the next week. Most of these men are new and unexperienced, as he lost eight regulars from last year.

Supt. Roy V. Ellise stated that Sikeston high school had about the largest enrollment in its history this year, 280 students attending the school.

Extradition Granted by Illinois For Negro Wanted in New Madrid

New Madrid, September 14.—The office of Governor Emerson of Illinois last Monday granted extradition papers for Charles Howard, a negro, formerly of this city, wanted on an assault charge issued last June. Since that time the negro has remained in Cairo where he managed a ball team.

On June 9 last Howard, it is charged, assaulted Clarence Bell at the Blue Front Restaurant with a razor, inflicting wounds on his arm and back. Eighteen stitches were necessary to close the wounds.

The negro was arrainged before Justice Hunter Wednesday, waived preliminary hearing, and was lodged in jail in default of a $2500 bond for appearance in Circuit Court next Wedesnday.

David Blanton left for Cleveland, Ohio, Wednesday night to join his room mate in school at Harvard, and with his parents tour New England before proceeding to Cambridge for the school session.

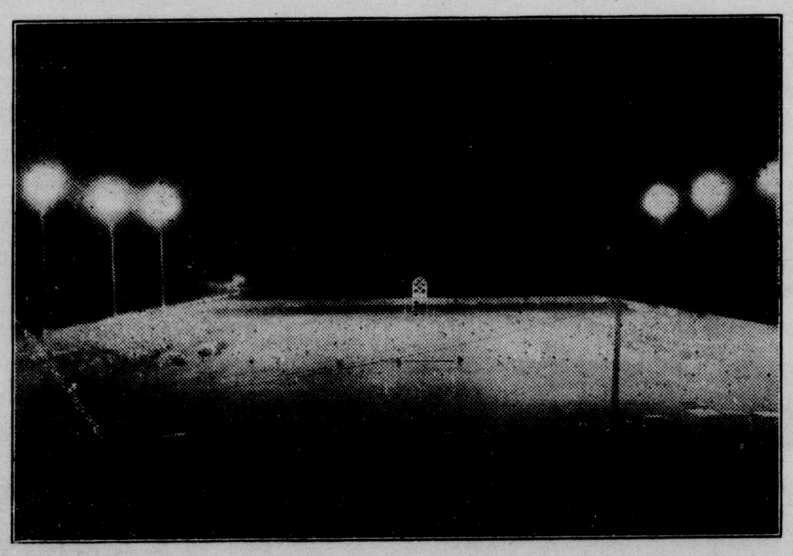
THEY'RE TURNING NIGHT INTO DAY



There will be no excuse this year for missing any of the local football games, not if daytime jobs interfered last year and in years past, for the Bulldogs play in light of 20 bulbs expending a total of 40,000 watts per hour. A view of an electrically lighted field is shown above. The first night game is with the neighboring school of Matthews, September 23.

Special wiring of the Sikeston field will permit lighting all or part of the lights at once.

MUNICIPAL SUICIDE

If municipal ownership is not a success in Sikeston, we have only ourselves to blame.

That broad, general statement is prompted at this time without calling names of Councilmen, members of the Board of Public Works, or its personnel.

To the average outsider, and by outsider we mean anyone not on the "in" of secret meetings of the Council, secret resolutions of the Board of Public Works and the like, those charged directly with the operation of the plant are losing sight of the main objective—THE SUCCESS OF THE PLANT AND THE GENERAL WELFARE OF SIKESTON.

We have no desire to get rough in this matter, but sufficient evidence is piling up to indicate one thing; certain parties in positions of power in our city have allowed their own petty, personal likes and dislikes, their own business experiences and fears to creep into the situation with the result that those in power are playing directly into the hands of those whose ambition is to see municipal ownership fail, and Sikeston citizens burdened with taxes, in order that private ownership might prosper.

Unless those parties get back to earth, stop quibbling and quarreling about ther own pet peeves, and present a united front with the ultimate success of the plant as their goal we will be forced to call names, quote facts, and generally print a few unpleasant things. This is not to be construed as threats at anyone. But we mean just what this says.

Let's get back to general principles. Sikeston's plant earned during its first year of operation about $19,000 including street lighting and water pumping for which no tax payer paid one cent.

We have here a model plant the envy of every community not fortunate enough to own one.

It is the only source of revenue outside of a direct tax for the city.

Rates are on a par with those charged by a private corporation operating here and in the district, and cheaper than many other towns and cities of like and smaller size.

The plant is manned by efficient men whose sole desire is to see the venture crowned with success.

And, this should not be forgotten. We have in this city opp sition not to be disregarded lightly.

As a general rule there is some disagreement within families. Yet those families usually present a united front when meeting the public. In the case of Sikeston, keep the petty matters within the family, and let's go from the nub keeping in mind always this goal, advancement of the city and success of municipal ownership within the city. They go hand in hand.

Those in charge of matters have done a remarkable piece of work. Let it not be spoiled by fights within the family.

The Sikeston Bulldogs have a slogan which might well be kept in mind: "LET'S GO SIKESTON!"

$12 Sensenbaugh Ad Exclusively in The Standard Nets Orders for Work Grossing Total of $1235 Since Friday

"We have spent a lot of money with you in advertising our firm and various services, and occasionally I've become discouraged about the so-called 'pulling power' of advertising", said Bill Sensenbaugh, owner of a super-service station by that name, to a Standard representative. "But I want you to know that the $12 advertisement we carried in The Standard last Friday brought in to date a total of $1235 worth of jobs".

Two men from Caruthersville and one from Hayti were questioned regarding their reason for driving to Sikeston in order to take advantage of the trailer brake service advertised by Sensenbaugh's. "We read the ad in your paper" was the response.

The local firm advertised the fact that a factory representative for Lockheed Hydraulic Brakes would be in Sikeston Tuesday this week. The advertisement tied in with new Public Service Commission rulings regarding brakes on truck trailers coming under the supervision of the Commission.

Special Motor Testing Machine To Be Brought to Sikeston Monday

A. G. Hall, formerly chief engineer of the U. S. Air Service, will be here next Monday, when he will demonstrate a new machine, known as the power prover, which will test motors, showing loss of efficiency in various parts. The demonstration will be held at the E. E. Arthur station, corner of Center street and Kingshighway.

It is claimed that with this machine, it is possible to make the necessary adjustments to carburetor, spark plugs and timing by a carefully checked routine, in order to insure most efficient motor performance.

C. OF C. PLAN TO SPONSOR PUBLIC REST ROOM GETS LIONS OK

Sikeston will soon have a public rest room, especially for women and children if plans of the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club mature. The project, suggested many times by this newspaper, following the success of a similar plan in effect in Kennett, has the hearty endorsement of both organizations. The City Hall is being considered seriously as a site.

C. C. HAWLEY, 80, DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

C. C. Hawley, aged 80 years and 7 days, died Monday, September 12 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Oscar Denton on South New Madrid Street. Mr. Hawley lived in Mississippi County for many years, farming Birds Point.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the residence, with Rev. A. E. Ray officiating. Interment was in the I. O. O. F. Cemetery at Charleston with the Lair Company of Charleston in charge.

Beer Bottle Attack Lands Three in Jail

New Madrid, September 14.—Mann Walker and Clifton Byrd were bound over to the Circuit Court on charge of having assaulted Charley Prater with a beer bottle in which the latter was knocked out and is still in a serious condition. The information against the defendants charge them with felonious assault with intent to rob and kill.

The altercation took place in New Madrid Septmeber 5, and immediately after all three were taken to the County Jail, where they all are at present, the two defendants being unable to fill a $1000 bond, and Prater being in jail while recuperating under the care of a local physician.

New P. S. C. Ruling Affects Truck Lines

Dozens of regulatory measures passed by the last Missouri Legislature, placing freight carriers on highways under the power of the Public Service Commission went into effect officially at midnight September 14.

The new regulations prescribe publishing of rate tariffs and routes traveled, regular weight, and size of carriers, and name safety measures to be complied with. All trailers, for instance, must now be equipped with adequate brakes, which must pass rigid tests. In the opinion of Sgt. R. R. Reed of the State Highway Patrol, many "home-made" makeshift affairs being applied to such carriers will fail to pass the test, leading to a recommendation that first class equipment of that nature be supplied to begin with.

Capt. A. D. Sheppard of this division, met with other division captains and members of the Commission in Jefferson City Wednesday for the purpose of discussing the new regulations.

Sponsors of the movement to regulate freight traffic on highways point out that the stringent regulations imposed will have a tendency to promote safety for motorists, and to keep "wild cat" operators off the highways.

A specific regulation limiting width of carriers to 96 inches, height to 12 feet, and length to 40 feet, will rule auto transport carriers off the roads of Missouri. Heretofore it was a common sight to see four or five new automobiles carriers measuring approximately in transit on highways on special 48 feet in length.

TESTS PROVE LIGHTS O. K. AT ATHLETIC FIELD HERE

A series of tests run Wednesday night of the new installation of flood lights at the high school athletic field resulted in an unqualified OK on the entire job, accordsuperintendent whose initiative is ing to Dan G. Pepper, muny plant largely responsible for the idea and its execution here. An expert with the Crouse-Hinds Company will be present to make last-minute adjustments on the night of September 22, and will remain unnight football game here between til the next day to witness the first Matthews and Sikeston.

LOCAL LABOR BEING USED ON ROUTE 55

Clearing of right-of-way and grading are underway on Route 55 AP from Chaffee south with the Richmond Construction Company as the successful bidder on this project. Work of clearing right-of-way started September 7 with a small crew of men. On the following day a crew of twenty-six men and fourteen teams started grading operations at the extreme north end of the project which is about one mile south of Chaffee. Route 55 is to be a high type, all weather gravel road from Chaffee to a point on Highway 61 near Morley. Local labor from the north end of Scott County is being used.

Taskee Father and Son Held In School Yard Murder Saturday

Poplar Bluff, September 14.—William Smith, 55-year-old Taskee farmer, and his son, 20, were held without bond here today, formally charged with the murder of Sam Willard, their 52-year-old neighbor, who was beaten to death Saturday night on the grounds of Williamson-Kennedy school in this city. The arrests were made this morning at the Hedspeth store in Williamsville.

Willard rode to town with the Smiths to complete payment on a farm purchased recently, and had about $75 in his pockets when murdered.

Conflicting stories of the two men led to their arrest.

Johnny Smith, in his first report to police, declared that he and Amber Smith on Harper to meet Willard left the home of his uncle his father and Amber, who had gone down town to purchase light bulbs for their truck. He related a story of being hailed by two men as he and Willard crossed the school yard. He escaped, he claimed, while Willard was slugged to death by unknown assailants.

Cotton Gins Report Ginning 857 Bales

The market Thursday afternoon closed two points higher than Wednesday close, October being quoted at 7.16.

The three Sikeston cotton gins reported total ginnings of 857 bales up to about 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Cotton got away to a slow start in this district due to the fact that the four-inch rain the latter part of August slowed up picking and ripening. Favorable weather in the past two weeks has given employment to thousands of pickers in the district and has brought cotton to the gins in a steady stream.

Ginners claim that the sudden opening of the crop is largely responsible for the present slight drop in prices.

Floyd Porter is again in the ice business, having purchased the interest of Henry Bolden in the City Ice Company and is in charge at this time.

S. & M. GROCERY MOVES TO CORNER LOCATION THURSDAY

Customers and friends of the S. & M. Grocery and Market operated by George Middleton will find the store moved to its new location at the corner of Kingshighway and Front Street, Friday morning, September 16.

Mr. Middleton has operated the S. & M. Grocery for several years, at first jointly with Wade Shankle, and during the past year by himself. The new location was vacated Thursday by the Joyner market.

WEATHER IDEAL HERE FOR CROP HARVEST

The weather has been behaving very nicely in the Sikeston district this past week with a high temperature of 86 degrees, low 50 degrees and no rainfall, according to the Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin issued from the Columbia, Mo., station for the week ending Tuesday, September 13.

Normal warmth, ample sunshine, scattered showers on the 9-10th and general rain over central and northern sections on the 12-13th made up another favorable week for crop maturity and farm operations in most of Missouri, according to Weather Bureau reports. Fall plowing and preparation of winter wheat seedbed was delayed in most central and southern sections because of dry soil, while in the southwest and most south-central areas rain was needed for late planted corn, forage crops, and pasturage, and locally for stock water.

Corn mostly is well matured. About 90 per cent will be safe from frost damage by October 1st along the northern border with continued favorable weather. Some is prematurely matured in the most northern sections the crop is southwest and being harvested. In the best in years, and in the east, where the main crop was poor, late planted corn is very good.

Pasturage and forage crops are good to excellent in the east and north, fair in south, and poor to fair in the southwest and extreme south, where some feeding is being done. Apple picking is underway; the estimate is for a ten per cent crop this year. Soybeans are being harvested, and cutting of fourth crop alfalfa started in the south; ideal curing conditions insure excellent quality of hay.

There were no rains of value south of Cass, Cole, Maries, and Iron Counties; most of this area was already dry last week. More rain is needed for farming operations, forage crops and pasturage, and for stock water. North of the Missouri River moisture is sufficient for fall plowing and planting, and for all crop needs.

The land boundary between the United States and Canada is marked by 5483 monuments.

BOARD TO REDISTRICT COUNTY INTO LARGER SCHOOL UNITS CHOSEN

The provisions of the new school law providing for re-districting the counties of the State into enlarged optional districts are now operative. On or before August 15th this law requires the county superintendent of every county to call the president and secretary or clerk of every school board in the county to meet at the county seat the 15th of September for the purpose of choosing a county school redistricting board of six members who may or may not be members of any school board in the county. The law prescribes that this board shall redistrict the entire county into enlarged optional districts, each of which shall contain an area of not less than fifty square miles, or in lieu of this area, a valuation of at least $1,500,000.

At the Scott County meeting held Thursday this week, R. E. Bailey, secretary of hte Sikeston School Board, was elected chairman, and Mr. Ross of Chaffee secretary. Member of the board of six members charged with the work of redistricting the county include the following: Sayers Tanner, Richland township; William English, Tywappity township; R. H. Mackley, Sandywoods; W. I. Tomlinson, Kelso township; Dr. Winters, Sylvania township and Otto Bugg of Morley township. O. F. Anderson, County Superintendent of Schools is an ex-officio member of the board, voting only in case of a deadlock. Commerce and Moreland towns are not represented on the board.

The essential feature fo the plan of reorganization which the survey staff is proposing is larger school units. The survey staff believes the children of Scott County can be served better by larger schools, and consequently by fewer schools simply transportation of children, and transportation of children is dependent upon passable roads.

The proposed reorganization plan for Scott County, when it is ultimately realized, would locate senior high schools of twelve grades at Benton, Blodgett, Chaffee, Fornfelt, Oran and Sikeston, and elementary schools of six grades at Commerce, Diehlstadt, Illmo, Kelso, Morley, New Hamburg, Perkins and Vanduser.

Mrs. Lee Bowman entertained with four tables of contract bridge Wednesday afternoon.

Everyone invited to the Parish Hall Wednesday evening, September 21, to a Bingo Party.

Mrs. Kate Harris accompanied her daughter, Miss Margaret, to Memphis, Tenn., Saturday, on her way to Dallas, Texas, where she is a teacher in the school.

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will have their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Dan Pepper Wednesday, September 21. All members are urged to attend.

Several members of the local Eastern Star went to Illmo, yesterday afternoon, for a surprise get-together meeting at the home of the District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Tommie Sue Waller.

Mrs. George Clark and Mrs. Al Daily entertained Tuesday with a 12:00 o'clock dinner. Covers were laid for Mesdames Frank Sikes, E. A. Lawrence, Calvin Greer, C. L. Blanton, Sr., C. A. Cook, Shirley Bloomfield, C. F. Bruton and Hoadley. The ladies spent the day quilting.

Louis J. Ballard, accompanied by Frank Kaizer, Early Bailey and Clyde Bailey, all of Carrollton, Ill., were in Sikeston Thursday looking over real estate in this section, especially that on the North Ridge. If these men see fit to locate in this country, we will be glad to give them a warm welcome and will be glad to have them with us.

LOCAL MAN HAS RARE SPECIMEN OF INDIAN HANDICRAFT

Kenzie Kenneth Baker, our local archeologist and collector of Indian relics, is home again, this time from a three weeks' jaunt into Indiana, where he visited relatives and old-time schoolmates in Sullivan after an absence of thirty-eight years.

Mr. Baker spent a day in Indianapolis, where he met and talked with Eli Lily, head of a large pharmaceutical company of that city, who has a large, valuable collection of Indian handicraft. Mr. Lily presented Mr. Baker with 3 pieces which are now highly prized. Two of the bits show remarkable patience on the part of the sculptors or workmen who fashioned the ornamental stones. One piece, hewn and scraped from hard sandstone is called a lizard banner stone, used for ornamentation only, or possibly as a means of identifying tribesmen or clans.

This particular stone, about 5 inches long by 2 inches wide, is in the general shape of a gothic window. The remarkable thing about the stone is the excellent proportions of a lizard, a raised figure on the plaque.

The other banner stone is called a butterfly stone, made of striated slate, a difficult material to work even with good, modern tools. This ancient artist, however, went modern, in that he outlined his subject leaving detail largely to the imagination. The stone widens out in the center thru which the artisan has drilled a perfectly round, smooth hole about the size of a lead pencil. The piece is to be worn septer like, whereas the lizard banner stone should be worn as a breast ornament.

Mr. Baker as a boy lived in Gill township between New Lebanon and Meron with his grandmother, Susan Settles for five years, leaving Indiana for Missouri in 1894, his native State.

Some day when you have nothing else to do try to find out where the Rinkydinks Club House is located in your city.

It exists, and the Club has a most loyal membership.

Once upon a time women's clothes contained more and more buttons.

Nowadays buttons have fewer and fewer women's clothes.

The system has its advantages, but hitch hiking grows tiresome, especially when traffic slows down to a minimum, or when auto owners step on 'er and speed past.

Which leads to the practice of leaving initials, names, and dates on convenient highway markers.

For instance, there are the names of Paul Sheppard, Hayti, Mo., and Ramon Mages of Old Mexico rubbing elbows with Neon Trotsky of Petrograd, Russia and with Raque Vale of Madrid, Spain.

Clyde Billops, who evidently has attended the University of Georgia, and who recently visited in Milton, West Virginia, is at home at 2638 Caroline St., St. Louis, Mo.

Billops has inscribed his notation with: "Right to me, you women".

This place rezesrved for Gent El Man Spatz and Dips.

Under th esign is a finely written line: "It took ten minutes to print this, so don't mess it up".

There are 2.7 filling stations for every mile of highway traversed by motorists in the United States—U. S. Dept. of Useless Information.

It is no longer necessary to remind Chris Francis of lettuce in order to get his goat.

Just mention "Keith Apartments" and watch Chris hunt cover.

That circus clown performance the other night, a pantomine baseball take-off, reminded us of that famous Dudley slide several years ago.

Dud lammed out a good three-bagger, rounded third, slowing down and went into a headlong tailspin about 12 feet from the platter.

Dud still turns a bright cherry red when that is mentioned.

Bill and jawbone are one and the same, so when the clown band passed, Bill and his oil truck and happened not to be playing, Bill shouts:

"Say, boy, play that horn, what d'y think we're paying you for?" and Bill received.

'Aw go peddle your gas, big boy . . an' toot your own horn. It's sticking out of your face far enough".

The other day one of our critics, who happens to be a school marm, offered this explanation before a class of children during a discussion of a poorly written article:

"Well, there's one thing sure. Everyone working on newspapers don't know everything about English".

We might make the inclusion a bit more inclusive.

Why the Railroads Are Sick

The proposal of the railroads to cut wages 20 per cent, in lieu of last year's cut of 10 per cent, indicates in what a desperate condition they are. If the attempt to make the proposed cut of 20 per cent succeeds, totaling one-fifth of the wages paid by the railroads, it will not contribute to the one necessity of the times—purchasing power. It will merely intensify the disastrous effects of decreased wages and unemployment.

The railroads are sick. They admit it. The securities of most of them are a drug on the market. They cannot pay their operating expenses and fixed charges. Their executives charge the shortage in earnings in addition to the general decrease in business, to the competition of trucks, which they claim are flourishing from lack of regulation and cost of roadbeds, which are public highways, coupled with low taxes. They are devising ways and means to put the trucks on a fair basis of competition, and to meet their competitive advantages. But none of these causes goes to the core of the railroads' distress. There is one cause that is driving the railroads down, and that is their overload of capitalization. They are suffering from an overload of stock. They are carrying more bonds and stock than they can digest. To use a sea phrase, they are waterlogged.

The aggregate debt of the railroads, represented by securities in the hands of the public, exceeds by several billions the debt of the entire United States, which is regarded as crushing for this great, wealthy nation. The railroads have approximately eight billions of common stock, more than two aggregate of these liabilities is more than 24 billion dollars, altho' billions of preferred stock and bond issues of more than 14 billions. The they claim a net capitalization of approximately only 19 billions. These are the figures for 1930, whereas the national debt in 1931 was only $16,800,000,000.

With some notable exceptions, the story of railroad building and stock and bond manipulation is an old story, full of scandals. The chief aim of most of the railroad promoters in early days seems to have been to get railroads built for the smallest possible cost, and their securities sold for the largest possible price. Transfers and mergers continually increased capitalization, with great profit to the promoters. Their successors as far as possible followed their example. Harriman's overloading of the C. & A. is still fresh in memory, and the Frisco's absorption of subsidiary roads built by officers and directors and sold to the railroad at enormous profit is a matter of somewhat recent history. The list is too long to enumerate. While some of this capitalization was wiped out by receiverships, yet the bulk of it remains and the railroads are trying to carry it. They are borrowing more money now to pay fixed charges and bolster securities; but in the long run are merely increasing the load. The specter of Government ownership faces them, because the Government is supplying the loans to keep their waterlogged securities afloat. How long can they be kept afloat?

The truth is that most of the railroads need thorough liquidation and reorganization. Unfortunately, the men who profited by selling water soaked securities will not be hurt by the consequences of their plundering tactics. The public holds the bag, and the bag will have to be lightened before the railroads get down to a sound business basis.

We need the railroads. They are the main lines of transportation. The trucks should be in a measure supplementary. So we are trying to help the railroads, but lifting them out of the slough by bootstraps is merely temporary relief. They will have to face the music in the long run, whether by reorganization, drastic cutting down of liabilities or by Government ownership.

Giving them the benefit of higher rates has its limits, especially when business is stagnant and prices are low. We shall have to deal with the principal cause of railroad sickness. The core of the disease must be cut out. It is a drastic remedy, but the necessity of it is exposed by present conditions. Other lines of business are resorting to it, and the railroads must take a course of similar treatment.—Post-Dispatch.

Ridiculous and Childish?

Our Republican friends are confessing desperation in the campaign by resorting to ridicule of the Democratic candidate for President. Ridicule is the last resort when better arguments are lacking.

Senator Moses, the wit of the Senate, is rather straining his wit in the attempt to make it appear that Mr. Roosevelt's speeches are ridiculous. Representative Beck of Pennsyivania, an able constitutional lawyer, is lowering his standard by calling Mr. Roosevelt a "Little Lord Fauntleroy", on account of his charming personality and excellent manners, and declares his speeches are childish. It would not be a misfortune to have a man of charming personality and excellent manners in the White House. These defenders of the Hoover administration seem to think that everything not in accord with its policies and the program of the big interests is ridiculous and childish.

Is it ridiculous and childish to advocate reform of the outrageous tariff, which has despoiled the American consumer and practically wrecked our foreign trade; which has caused a wave of retaliatory tariff-making on the part of other nations until the world has been brought to a condition of desperation?

Is it ridiculous and childish to advocate reciprocity in tariffs? One of the most brilliant leaders of the Republican party made tariff reciprocity a leading issue. James G. Blaine advocated it convincingly.

Is it ridiculous and childish to take the banks out of speculation, the orgy of which they helped to promote and which struck a deadly blow at legitimate business?

Is it ridiculous and childish to put the banking business on a sounder basis, with legitimate credits to help business, and prevent the sale of questionable or rotten foreign securities to confiding American purchasers?

Is it ridiculous and childish to criticise the ghastly failure of Mr. Hoover's Farm Board and to propose sounder means of giving relief to the farmers?

Is it ridiculous and childish to refer to "the forgotten man", representing the masses of wage earners, who, our Republican leaders seem to think, are merely dependents of the masters of finance and industry, who have exploited them and failed miserably to take care of them?

Is it ridiculous and childish to propose modification of a system which has multiplied millionaires and billionaires and doomed millions of workers to helpless poverty and dependence upon charity?

Is it ridiculous and childish to say that while government does all in its power to save banks and business from bankruptcy, there should be effective means provided to save the millions of jobless from starvation.

Is it ridiculous and childish to urge the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which has utterly failed as a means of promoting temperance, and has brought the country into a slough of lawlessness and crime; which has enriched the bootleggers at the expense of the government treasury?

Is it ridiculous and childish to advocate the reorganization of wasteful governmental departments, and the abolition of costly and practically useless bureaus, and economies in the enormous expenditures of government which are crushing the taxpayers?

If criticism of governmental incompetence and corruption is ridiculous and childish, we shall all have to become ridiculous children. Sarcasm and ridicule are potent weapons when directed against folly, but their shafts fall harmless when directed against realities and facts. The American people, who are suffering under present conditions, are not likely to accept the substitution of ridicule for sound sense.—Post-Dispatch.

SCOUT ROUNDUP TO BE HELD IN CAPE SEPT. 23

One of the big events of the early fall season in Scouting is the 1932 autumn round-up of all Boy Scouts of Southeast Missouri to be held at Cape Girardeau, Friday, September 23.

As usual the big feature of the entertainment program will be a football game, this year between the State Teachers' College eleven and McEndree. Scouts are requested to pay the government tax of five cents, although passes will be issued for the game. An evening meal is to be furnished free to visiting boys and Scoutmasters.

There will be but one athletic contest between halves this year. This will be the four-man shuttle relay race with each man running 50 yards. Troop 42 of Morley won this event last year. Ribbons will be awarded for the first three places in the race, but points toward the Elmore Kassel cup will be counted for five places.

As last year, troops ranking first, second and third in appearance in parade will receive ribbons. Troops from Cape will form one division and those from outside another division with each group having its own competition. Five places will be picked in each troop and points awarded toward the cup.

The third point to be considered in the awarding of the Kassel cup will be the percentage of the membership of the troop attending. The number of registered Scouts on record at the Scout office will be the basis for determining percentages. Scoutmasters are urged to have all of their Scouts register for the game at the same time so that the number present and percentages may be more easily computed. The registration booth will be at the Court House Park unless it rains, in which case it will be at the Chamber of Commerce as last year.

The basis for awarding points is as follows:

(1) Attendance 100%, 25 points; 90 to 99%, 20 points 75 to 89%, 15 points; 50 to 74%, 10 points; less than 50%, 5 points.

SCOTT COUNTY CORN CROP FALLS BELOW AVERAGE OF STATE

Here in Scott County, the preliminary corn crop totals 68,820 acres and the condition on September 1 was 63% of normal, so say E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the U. S. D. A. and Missouri State Board of Agriculture. Scott County farmers report oat yields averaging 15 bushels; soybeans are 55% September normal; yield clover and timothy hay, 75 tons per acre; September pasture condition, 39%; apple crop 21% of a full crop.

The Standard presents the following condensed summary of the State-wide September crop situation in Missouri:

Corn, at 81% of normal, indicates 30 bushel average on 6,308,000 acres, totaling 189,240,000 bushels. One year ago, 76%, 6,131,000 acres, averaging 28.5 bushels totaling 174,734,000 bushels.

Oats, 1,977,000 acres, averaging 17.5 bushels, totaling 34,597,000 bushels. One year ago—1,786,000 acres, averaging 30 bushels, totaling 53,580,000 bushels

Tame hay crops this year, 2,632,000 acres, compared with 2,787,000 acres in 1931. Condition of soybeans, 86%; alfalfa yields 2.1 tons per acre; cane and grain sorghum crop good.

Cotton prospect is for 187,000 bales compared with 289,000 bales ginned last year. Irish potatoes average 85 bushels this year, compared to 75 bushels in 1931.

Missouri fruit crops poor, except grapes. Grapes at 83% of normal indicate 10,086 tons against 10,280 tons last year. Plowing for winter wheat delayed in southern counties, from lack of rain, but proceeding normally in the north. Pastures are in better shape than month ago.

GAZETTE SOLD BY A. E. STEIN

A. E. Stein, publisher of the Gazette has sold the paper to E. E. Ward, Jr., and ownership has been transferred effective September 1.

Mr. Ward is a young man of several years experinece in the printing business, and in recent years has been employed on The Sikeston, Mo., Standard. He will have associated with him in the newspaper work his brother, Herschel Ward, who for several years was county assessor of New Madrid County. Both are splendid young men, desirous of establishing themselves in business in Hickman County, which was the home of their father at one time. Active and ambitious, these young men take over the management of Hickman county's newspaper, with the hopes of keeping up the high standing it has attained over a period of the last several years.

A. E. Stein, who retires after almost ten years of service in capacity of publisher, took the paper when it was down and out, and the prestige it now possesses is due largely to his personal efforts to be progressive and dependable as a citizen and business man.

The retiring publisher will get the young men started off, and after adjusting business affairs, he and his wife will take a vacation of several months before again engaging in business.

The Gazette has been a factor in the community life of Hickman County, and if the business interests and citizens give it the support a newspaper deserves, the new publisher will continue its success. —Clinton, Ky. Gazette.

VOCATIONAL HOME EC TEACHERS MEET HERE

Vocational Home Economics teachers of Southeast Missouri will hold a district meeting here this week Thursday evening and all day Friday, according to Miss Isabelle Hess, teacher of the subject in the local school. Miss Ella Moore, State Supervisor of Vocational Home Economics will be in charge of discussions pertaining to plans for the year and problems of teaching.

Friday the local department will serve lunch to the visitors. About ten are expected to attend.

This meeting, according to Miss Hess, will take the place of the annual State Convention, but plans are being made to attend the national convention which will be held this year in Kansas City, December 7 to 10 inclusive.

An apple by-product will furnish dairy herds of Northern California with a new food this winter. Dried apple pomice, the scraps remaining from dryers and vinegar plants, has been found suitable as a substitute for beet pulp, used at present in feeding stock.

The new civil code, adopted a few weeks ago by the young Turkish republic, limited the marriage age for girls to 17. A new law passed recently makes it possible for girls to marry at 15 provided they secure permission from the civil court. This is specially made for Anatolia, where girls marry young. In the days of the Sultans the Anatolian girls were married at 12, and at 15 they were already happy mothers.

New Madrid County School Notes

Milus R. Davis

On September 15 the presidents and clerks, or secretaries, of all school districts in the county will meet at New Madrid for the purpose of selecting a county districting board of six members to divide the county into proposed enlarged school districts, in pursuance, of Section 1, page 230, New School Law. Each county in the State will have a similar meeting on the same date.

This body will convene at 10:00 o'clock and all clerks and presidents should be present or be represented by a duly authenticated proxy. Other members of the board are invited. Directors will be allowed $1.50 for the day and 5 cents per mile traveled, to be paid by the local district (Sec. 9469).

The meeting will hold until 4:00 p. m., extra time being used for the discussion of questions pertaining to school administration.

Of the 6 members to be selected for the redistricting board, not more than one shall be chosen from the same municipal township and not more than three shall come from any county court judicial district.

This means that 3 members are to come from the north judicial district which includes Como, St. John, New Madrid, Hough, Big Prairie, and West Townships; and that 3 will be elected from the south judicial district which consists of Portage, Anderson, LeSieur, LaFont and Lewis Townships.

In the opinion of the Attorney General's office, the body should vote to eliminate first by township, that is, vote on the nominees from each township the one receiving the highest number of votes being nominated. Then the body should vote on 6 members from the group of eleven nominees, voting on no more than 3 from each judicial district.

A better plan would be to vote on the nominees in each judicial district separately which would call for two different ballotings in the final, the three highest in each case to be elected.

The six men elected will later meet to divide the county into proposed enlarged school districts having an area of not less than 50 square miles, or in lieu thereof, an assessed valuation of not less than $1,500,000.

Redistricting is required by law and in order to make these large districts two or three towns will be thrown into one district in some cases.

We are sorry to see this move come at this time and fear that it will not help our county very much, especially since we already have thirteen consolidations in the county.

Most of our consolidated schools have constructed expensive buildings which are only partially paid for and larger districts would require further building which is impractical at this time as our county is already bonded entirely too heavily.

The State school funds have been apportioned, the rural of New Madrid County being alloted $24,232 and the high schools $144,456 which is considerably more than the allotment for last year. However, only about 50% of this will be paid. One-third will be paid within the next week or two and about 15% more will be paid next March 15.

The allotment could be paid in full if the survey plan had gone through in the last legislature but the senators who were controlled by the rich voted the income tax down so low that the plan was only partially caried out. We noticed that these fellows who did the dirty work got a big vote from the rural sections anyway in the last election. As long as the rural people support such men they will keep right on tramplin us under their feet.

FARM CHARMS AS SEEN BY ANGRY FARMERETTE

Recently a farm journal offered a prize for the best letter written by a farm woman describing the charms of life on the farm. One lady signing her name as Mrs. G. O. T. Nothing, replied promptly, and while the picture she painted is not roseate by any means, it is safe to assume that she got the prize. Her letter follows:

"My husband has more personal belonging than 'Carter has cats'. In fact, everything on the farm belongs to him but the half dozen 9:30. But my husband pockets which are mine.

"I sit under a bunch of old hot cows for an hour twice a day, pull out every ounce of milk I can, turn the separator, feed the milk to a bunch of hogs, get milk from head to foot and don't get back in the house to wash the dishes before ache. And then the darned the cream check.

"I set incubators, sell baby chicks, raise a bunch myself, sell eggs and fryers, but the only time I'm mentioned is when I ask hizzoner' to look at the incubator when I'm half dead with a headache. And then the darned thing's mine and I'd better take care of the blamed thing.

"The farm is husband's and he can't understand why in the Sam Hill my name has to be on the deed. I split the cook wood and the youngsters carried it in the woodshed but I heard hubby telling the neighbors, 'I' have my cook wood split and in the dry for the winter. He shows his friends 'his' chickens, 'his' truck patch and 'his' garden, when he doesn't know what I have planted, or how many chicks I have in the brooder house.

"It will be three years in July that hubby bought my last dress, yet last week when I asked for 88 cents to buy a wash dress that I might be able to attend a farm club meeting, my only answer was All a darned woman's mind runs on is something to wear'. If I should get a dollar for writing this I intend to have that 88-cent dress if I'm obliged to break his darned head.—Ralls County Record.

CRIMSON CLOVER TRIED OUT AS SPRING AND WINTER PASTURE HERE

Crimson clover is demonstrating itself as an outstanding winter and early spring pasture crop in Southeast Missouri, according to County Agent Furry. It was grown by Doc Cannon of Morley, the past year and made a wonderful growth and he threshed the crop for seed, made a good yield of high grade seed. Several are getting seed now and sowing it this month.

It not only adapts itself to the light soils better than our other legumes, but will grow on soil that needs liming. Liming is not necessary for it's growth. It should be sown now as soon os possble and lightly covered to get quick growth. In the early spring it's abundant growth, supplies heavy pasture and allows us to keep our live stock off of our permanent pastures until they get a good growth.

The Sikeston Experiment Station also had favorable results this last winter. It would be well to try a small acreage of this crop, yet this year, and anyone desiring further information should get in touch with County Agent Furry at Benton.

RELATIVES FIRST IS AXIOM OF LAWMAKERS

We can rest assured on one point and this is that if any employes are lopped off the federal payroll the great army of congressional Uncle Sam without doing any work will remain safe.

relatives who draw salaries from Nepotism is the most sacred of all sacred cows. Our national legislators will fight to the last thunderbolt to keep their deserving wives, children and thirty-second cousins on the payroll.

Yes, the silo in Washington will keep on giving provender for the whole congressional tribe, and the trough will always be filled. Uncle Sam may be a Shylock to his European debtors, but toward the kin of his solons he is never stingy. Any congressman's daughter old enough to skip rope can become a pampered clerk for her dad without ever going near his office, and even grandpa with his lumbago can qualify as a recipient—if not an earner—of government wages.

The congressional habit of appointing one's relatives to federal jobs isn't quite universal. But it's so nearly so that the easiest way to find an exception would be to discover first a lawmaker who was both an orphan and a bachelor and who had no brothers, sisters, uncles or cousins. The motto of motto of "relatives first" is held by radicals and reactionaries.—Wayne Gard in Vanity Fair.

COMMITTEE COMPLIMENTS GARDNERS ON FINE WORK DESPITE BAD SEASON

By Gordon B. Nance
County Extension Agent, New Madrid County

Last week County Extension Agent Gordon B. Nance, with the committee from the Sikeston Lions Club, H. Sharp and C. D. Matthews visited some twenty-five gardens in the northern part of New Madrid County, which were entered in the Lions Club Garden Contest. These gardens visited were excellent demonstrations of the kind of gardens that it is possible to produce even under very unfavorable weather conditions. The requirements for these gardens specified that 14 different vegetables be grown in the spring and summer garden, and that five different vegetables be grown in the fall gardens, in order that the gardener could receive a perfect score on number of varieties. Very few of the gardens lacked more than two of these vegetables having their full quota in varieties grown. Furthermore while they usually spoke of the difficulties they encountered in gardening on account of drouth and insect pests, in response to questions they almost invariably stated that they had produced all the vegetables of any of these varieties that they could use except late cabbage. These people are to be congratulated upon the showing they made with their gardens this year. This has been an unfavorable year for gardens, protracted drouths were experienced during which garden seed would not germinate. Insect pests were also more abundant and destructive this year than usual. These gardeners were no more favorably situated than the average farmer, and had no more additional equipment than is to be found on the average farm. These gardens are excellent demonstrations of what can be accomplished under average conditions.

The following are the names of the people whose gardens were visited:

Morehouse—Mrs. C. O. Barnett, Mrs. F. B. Rauch, Mrs. J. T. Self, Mrs. H. Ruby Givens and Mrs. Frank Zillmer.

Sikeston—Mrs. Rosie Toney, Mrs. S. S. Vaughn, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. H. O. Anderson.

Canalou—Mrs. H. G. Cathey, Mrs. Suton, Mrs. Taul, Mrs. Bonner, Mrs. Kochel, Mrs. Walter Moore, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Hartley, Mrs. S. T. Kline, Mrs. Wayne Wright, Mrs. Joe Schacherbauer, Mrs. X. Caverno and Mrs. Haywood.

They Say—Says The Man About Town

By ART L. WALLHAUSEN

This column is written just exactly as I see it. I'm not asking anyone to agree or disagree, get angry, be pleased, cuss, rare or stay sober.

Quite often it is a means of unloading steam.

Lotteries for instance. I think lotteries, controlled by the State or the Federal government, the American Legion or some other fraternal or social group, are OK.

Of course preachers and a few other folks throw up their hands in holy horror, but heck. The same preachers often receive part of their salary from lotteries, as f'rinstance from the proceeds of quilt "sales", lotto and bingo parties, etc.

There is, however, another reason for our hair-brained attitude toward lotteries. It keeps folks pepped up twixt the time the ticket is purchased and the final drawing.

You folks who have purchased such tickets from time to time know the feeling. Knowing the chances are a million to one makes no difference. One day dreams and hopes secretly against all better reason that the ONE slip of paper drawn from the tumbling mass of slips will be YOUR number.

After that you sort of resign yourself to a mental spending spree. Travel, a car, a business of your own, perhaps a home, clothes—all the things you've always wanted.

And after all, why not? Life is a gamble. So are women, men, and all that goes with life.

It seems to me that "thou shalt not gamble" is just another instance of thou shalt not for no good reason.

Sikeston motorists are paying 84 cents for the same amount.

We suppose taxes, rent, leases, salaries, etc., are just that much higher in Sikeston. Can't think of any other reason.

Wisdom is knowing what to do next: Skill is knowing how to do it, and Virtue is doing it. Lifted from a motto plaque in the Division 10 Highway office.

Commissioner Ferguson of Cape Girardeau dismissed the case against Theo. W. Meyer of Old Appleton, charged with violation of the prohibition law, because the search warrant was faulty under which the raid of May 25 was made. It is reported that the location of the building to be searched was described as being near old No. 61, while it should have been No. 25, but the principal defect was that the alleged beer was located in the cellar of the dwelling house, and a search warrant will not be issued for such unless there is a charge of sale, which was not alleged in this instance. Quashing the warrant did not bring back those nearly 6000 gallons which were poured into the creek.—Jackson Post.

The Phillips School Home and Community Club report their monthly meeting September 8 at the home of Mrs. L. Littell with 7 members present. The subject was was in charge of the program and Apron Patterns. Mrs. L. Littell demonstrated different ways to enlarge garment patterns that were too small, and also demonstrated colors which blended well in garments. Their next meeting will be October 13 at the home of Mrs. Ethel Phelps, and the subject will be quilt making.

What Is
ATHLETE'S FOOT
Over 30 Million Americans Now Have It—
Is This Dreaded Disease Becoming a Plague?

Athlete's Foot is a fungus germ (Tinea) which appears on the feet in the form of a little yellow blister, causing severe irritation and itching—especially between the toes. This disease is very contagious and is spreading with alarming rapidity among all classes of people.

The failure to successfully treat Athlete's Foot in the past has been due largely to the fact that these germs hibernate in the pores of the shoes. Salves and liquids applied only to the feet DO NOT PENETRATE THE PORES OF THE SHOES.

Medical Science has recently developed an amazing treatment known as Meritt Foot Powder, which laboratory and clinical tests have proved will positively kill these germs and restore feet so infected to a normal, healthy condition. It is simply sifted on the feet and into the shoes.

Meritt Foot Powder quickly eliminates excessive perspiration and itching of the toes. It heals irritation and is unsurpassed for chafing and as a deodorant. Why suffer another day when this fast working treatment is positively guaranteed to overcome these distressing conditions or your money refunded?

MISSOURI HISTORY

(Floyd C. Shoemaker)

From the Walnut street portico of the Southern Hotel at St. Louis that night of September 8, 1866, Andrew Johnson hurled into the ears of a great milling crowd, a hostile Congress and his Radical enemies. Two years later words of bitter defiance against those same words echoed in the halls of Congress during the only impeachment trial of a United States president.

The occasion of the St. Louis speech was the first visit of a president of the United States to Missouri, the anniversary of which recurs this week. President Johnson's stop at St. Louis was a high spot in his famous campaign known as the "Swing Around the Circle".

Led by the steamboat Andy Johnson, thirty-six steamers left the St. Louis levee at eight o'clock that morning for Alton, Ill., where the boats would meet the presidential party coming from Springfield and Chicago. Bands were playing and the decorated boats were loaded with St. Louis people. The whole city was in holiday attire for the great occasion.

The presidential train arrived at Alton about eleven o'clock, and after brief ceremonies by the officials of the city, the presidential party was escorted to the fleet of boats amid great cheering. Sewart, Welles and Randall, members of the cabinet and Gen. Grant and Admiral Farragut, were in the presidential party. On behalf of St. Louis, the President and his party were welcomed by Capt. James Eads, who later built the Eads bridge at St. Louis. About noon the great fleet of 36 steamers, symbolic of President Johnson's fight to maintain a union of all States, which at that time reached that number, left for St. Louis.

About two o'clock, a great crowd on the Big Mound at St. Louis saw the presidential fleet round a bend in the river and burst into view. In the lead were three steamboats, the Andy Johnson, the Ruth, and the Olive Branch, lashed together. The fleet steamed by the city front with bands playing and people waving handkerchiefs and hats, as thousands looked on from the banks. When the boats were opposite Carondelet, a presidential salute was fired from the U. S. Arsenal, and then the boats returned to the landing.

As soon as the city's guests arrived, a procession was formed and moved off. Streets and buildings were gayly decorated. The parade moved from Walnut street into Main and then turned up Chestnut, where it passed under a great arch, three stories high, erected by the St. Louis Republican, and on to the Lindell Hotel where Mayor Thomas welcomed the party to the city. The crowd was so great that it was with difficulty that the party reached the hotel.

At nine o'clock that night the President and his party were taken to the Southern Hotel for a banquet. Another great crowd filled the streets and clamored so loudly for the President that he finally consented to appear and speak. Johnson had been warned by friends not to make extemporaneous speeches, for throughout the nation, his Radical enemies were watching him with jealous closeness, and would make political capital of anything he might say. But encouraged by "round after round of deafening cheers", Johnson unleashed his invective to a sympathetic audience. The words spoken to that receptive St. Louis crowd before the Southern Hotel were later used in the attempt to impeach and convict Johnson in 1868. A banquet followed the impromptu speech. Johnson and his party remained in St. Louis over the week-end, and left for Indianapolis and Washington on Monday, September 10.

Johnson was greeted at St. Louis with a cordiality and sincerity unsurpassed elsewhere. Radical opponents of the President conspired to offset the influence of his campaign by fomenting bitter opposition to him. At Cleveland and at Indianapolis, the President was greeted with disorder and shouted down. Such were the methods used by opposing politicians during what has been called the "Tragic Era" of American history.

Missouri played another part in the history of Andrew Johnson that should be remembered. When the President was tried in 1868 before the U. S. Senate on impeachment charges, seven men overthrew party control and voted to acquit him. One of these seven men was Senator John B. Henderson of Missouri. Had one more vote been cast in the "guilty" column, Johnson would have been convicted. Because of their independent votes, however, six of the seven were ruined politically. Henderson was the only one who lived to be prominent again in his party.

"I NO LONGER HAVE TO TAKE LAXATIVES OF ANY KIND.... SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS HAVE ENTIRELY FREED ME OF CONSTIPATION"

The commonest curse of mankind is constipation. It poisons us, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages us prematurely, and leaves us an easy victim of countless diseases. Millions are slaves to the laxative habit. The effect of ordinary cathartics is only temporary; they weaken bowel action and lose their effect. The more we take the more we have to take.

A New Discovery

Bile, prepared by the liver, is Nature's great weapon against constipation. It is a natural laxative, antiseptic and antiacid. Bile is also a digestant without which sound digestion is impossible.

Until the discovery of Sargon Soft Mass Pills, we have been blasting out the intestines with cathartics and purges, believing that they stimulated the liver. Science now knows that calomel, salts, oils and other ordinary laxative drugs have no effect whatever on the liver.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain an amazing substance which highest medical authorities agree is the only effective stimulant to the bile producing activity of the liver known to Materia Medica.

Unlike ordinary cathartics, this substance does not shock or upset the system. It does its work by gently stimulating the liver to cleanse itself by increasing its production of bile—a more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

This remarkable medicine may be obtained from

Remember Away Back When—?

Men on the shady side of sixty will remember what a thrill they got when boys coasting down a long steep hill on home-made sleds. They will also recall what a task it was climbing back to the hill top after the hair-raising ride downward. Had to dig into the snow for a toe hold almost every step. The way UP was long and exhausting and some of the boys usually dropped by the wayside. Others by concentrating their energy and breathing deeply made the grade. Merchandising as it is today reminds one of the UP HILL climb in boyhood years.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

David Livingston, a college student and son of a doting mother, falls in love with Kitty Lane, waitress in a restaurant. While they are riding in David's roadster, Mrs. Livingston and Judge Forbes drive up. David is startled to hear his mother call to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Kitty did not tarry long after Dave had introduced her to his mother. She made an excuse and hastened into the restaurant. The lad faced the two aristocrats in the limousine.

"Who is that girl?" His mother inquired.

Dave was annoyed. "What difference does it make? Just a girl."

Mrs. Livingston was taken aback. Dave had never behaved this way before. Was it possible that she was losing her hold upon him. "That's no answer, David!"

"Mother, don't start fussing right here in the middle of Main Street!"

Mrs. Livingston was reproachful. "You had your arm around her."

"That's been done before, mother."

"What kind of a person is she to permit——"

"I'll tell you all about her, but not here—in front of the whole world. Let's go home." David was irritated.

Mrs. Livingston became demanding. "David! I insist upon knowing who that girl is!"

"All right—if you must know—she sells hamburgers."

The woman was horrified. "A waitress!"

"Yes—a waitress!" David was defiant.

Mrs. Livingston went into her act. "Oh!" She shut her eyes. Her body went limp; "Oh! Oh, my heart!"

"I'm terriby sorry, mother. I shouldn't have spoken like that."

She spoke as though with an effort. "Oh, David! You mustn't do these things to me. You know how sick I am!"

At last the scene was over and David got his mother home; but he forgot her wishes when it came to seeing Kitty. Each day, he found time between his studies and his duties at home in caring for his mother to see Kitty and take her places.

They went to the beach. Had their pictures taken in a photograph gallery on one of the cut-out camels that made them look funny and all out of proportion. They were delightful days and evenings for both Kitty and Dave.

Mrs. Livingston was not long in finding the photograph. She made it her business to search David's belongings regularly. She showed the picture to Judge Forbes, who visited her in her room, because the woman was supposed to be suffering from another heart attack brought about by the discovery.

"But I tell you, he wants to marry the girl!"

The Judge was unperturbed.

"I won't have it," Mrs. Livingston raised her voice. "I simply won't have it!" she whined. "This is going to kill me, William. I know it."

Forbes became impatient. "Stop it, Helen! Save your theatrics for David. You may need them."

She changed abrutly to her natural tone. "What are we going to do?"

"In cases like this one usually reaches for a checkbook," the Judge declared.

"It won't be as simple as that."

"It always has been."

"Suppose she refuses?" Mrs. Livingston asked. "Women of that sort are very ambitious."

"Then it will be time to think of something else."

"But what? There is nothing else—" she interrupted herself as a happy idea flashed into her mind. "William!" He looked at her inquiringly as she continued. "We could have her committed to an institution or something couldn't we? She's an immoral person—really."

Forbes stared at her in amazement. "Is it your heart, or your mind that's affected?"

Mrs. Livingston insisted, "It's been done before—with your influence—"

"Stop talking nonsense! We don't have to resort to anything so drastic."

"I tell you, William—it's the only way——"

"Don't get yourself all excited!" Then he added drily, "Remember your heart." She flashed a dirty look at him and sank back on her pillows as the judge continued. "Perhaps if we got him out of the way—", he turned suddenly and looked intently at the woman. "Is your heart bad enough to consult a specialist in Vienna or Berlin, or some place like that?"

Mrs. Livingston looked at him for an instant, perplexed by the question. She was about to speak when a knock was heard on the door followed by David's voice calling softly, "Mother!"

Forbes signaled with a wave of his hand for Mrs. Livingston to lie down. She quickly adjusted the pillows and settled back, appearing for all the world a woman slowly fading away. Forbes, satisfied with the picture she presented, crossed to the door and admitted David. The lad looked at his mother and became frightened. "How is she?"

"Shhh!" Forbes cautioned leading the lad out of the room.

"What happened?" Dave was deeply concerned.

"Your mother is a very sick woman, my boy." His voice was doleful. "The doctor was here a few moments ago—and—"

The lad was panic-stricken. "What'd he say?"

"She must leave for Europe at once. There's a specialist in Vienna—"

Dave interrupted him. "Do you think she's strong enough to travel?"

"I suppose so. That is, if she had some one to take care of her. Dr. Ames is recommending a nurse."

"We can't trust her with a nurse—not in the condition she's in. You know how nurses are. Hard as nails."

Forbes nodded. "You're right. But what can we do? She really should have some one who understands her. As a matter of fact, I thought of going myself, but I don't see how I can. I have a case coming up in the Supreme Court next week." He sighed, paused an instant to watch David's reaction, and then continued. "I suppose we'll just have to turn her over to a nurse, and hope for the best."

"I'll go with her." David had made up his mind. "I'd better tell mother. It will make her feel better."

Forbes smiled as the lad entered his mother's room.

That evening, David hastened over to the restaurant to see Kitty. Dot and Fred had gone out of town to attend a wedding, so Kitty was keeping house alone.

"I've got tough news for you, Kitty." She looked up with a women's intuition sensing disaster. The lad continued. "I'm going away. Mother's had a stroke. She's got to go abroad to some specialist. If it wasn't a matter of life and death I'd let her go alone. But I don't see how I can get out of it."

"Why, dear, you won't have to. You mustn't even try."

Dave smiled. "You're coming, too."

Kitty did not get the significance of his remark. "Me?" She was bewildered. "How?"

"Marriage. What do you say, Kit?"

"Give me time to catch my breath." A sudden foreboding came to her. "Have you told your mother?"

"I told her I was going to marry you. Of course, she doesn't expect anything immediate."

"She doesn't like me."

"She isn't marrying you," Dave laughed.

Kitty was thoughtful. "You can't blame her. Maybe if she got to know me better she might not think I was so bad. I wouldn't want to hurt her. If she's that sick, we musn't do anything that'll be a shock. How long would you be gone, Davey?"

"A few months, I suppose. But get this through your head: I'm not going anywhere without you."

"I'd wait, honey, a few years if I had to—all my life."

"It's sweet of you to think about my mother." He remained thinking a few seconds before he spoke again. "We could elope and keep it a secret. We could tell her when she's better." A sudden thought occurred to him. "Gosh, Kit! I haven't really asked you, have I? I'm just taking it for granted you want to marry me. You do, don't you?"

(TO BE CONTINUED)

"Don't get yourself excited!" he said aryly.
(Posed by Oscar Apfel and Clara Blandick)

"COLOSSUS" COMING TO SIKESTON

Sikeston fishermen who have racked their brains, and suffered arm strain in telling about the "big one that got away" will have an opportunity to see a member of the finny tribe sufficiently long, and large enough for any ordinary fish story. Sikestonians will have an opportunity to see a real whale, preserved of course, for two days, starting Wednesday, September 21.

The Pacific Whaling Company, Inc. of Long Beach, Calif., have their representative in town completing arrangements for the arrival of the mammoth display. For one thing, it will be the largest visitor we have ever had as the whale is nature's largest creature and always has been. The $50,000 steel glass-enclosed car will be on location at Frisco passenger depot. It was about a year ago, that the Pacific Whaling Company, Inc., of Long Beach, Calif., conceived the idea of sending an exhibit of this sort into the interior. It was received with such enthusiasm on the part of persons living inland that now several of the preserved whales are on tours of the country. Everywhere people are curious to see these specimens of the only animal in the world that science is unable to completely analyze.

The whale is in perfect condition and just as it appeared when encountered off the coast of Southern California. It is transported on its own 85 foot glass enclosed railway car and is 65 feet long and weighs almost 72 tons. Its heart weighed 1286 pounds and the tongue, which had to be removed during the embalming process and then replaced, weighed 600 pounds.

In addition to the whale, the exhibit will include specimens such as the actopus, and other marine life, and the harpoon gun, and the modern harpoon with the explosive head.

Captain L. M. Barnett explains the details of the exhibit and the Captain lectures at length on the strange mammal.

tion including Eugene is eligible after passing the Senior Degree, to work for the next step, that of Graduate. Members of that rank may apply for sums up to a total of $1500 exclusively towards college expenses, until the $250,000 offered by the company for this purpose is released.

22 Dead In Texas Hurricane Saturday

Press dispatches today placed the known dead at 22, and crop damage at one million dollars, in a hurricane which swept in from the Gulf Saturday night, skipped Galveston, Texas, and spent its fury inland in the State of Texas.

HARRY SHUFFIT HELD ON ATTEMPT AND ABUSE CHARGE SATURDAY

Harry Shuffit 18, was picked up early Sunday morning by local officers to face charges filed by J. P. Featherston, who charges the youth with disturbing the peace, assault and attempt to rape his wife, Gladys Featherston. The charges are an outgrowth of a disturbance alleged to have taken place near the Robinson Lumber Company sheds Saturday night.

In a memorandum in Police Court, Mr. Featherston stated that Shuffit removed both of his wife's shoes, tore her clothing, beat her side, and attempted rape. The lad had not appeared for a preliminary hearing.

In a statement to this newspaper Monday morning, Shuffit mentioned a "beer party" in which he and Mrs. Featherston were involved. Both had had a considerable amount of the intoxicant, he stated.

In his statement to the press Shuffit denied violating the woman's honor. The fight was precipitated over method of procedure and not the written and unwritten law of consent.

Mrs. Featherston could not be reached for a statement, and friends offered the explanation that she was visiting in Arkansas, having left Sunday. This statement, however, could not be verified today.

TEXANS INJURED SATURDAY WHEN AUTOMOBILE OVERTURNS

Three tourists eroute from Eastland, Texas, to Indiana, to spend a vacation were only slightly injured Saturday afternoon about four o'clock, when their sedan left Highway 60, six miles west of Sikeston and made three complete turns coming to rest finally on its wheels in the ditch. The driver J. B. Bishop, 65, apparently lost control of the machine, but was unable to state how the accident actually happened. He received a number of slight scalp lacerations and head bruises. His wife suffered a fractured right collar bone and their granddaughter, Miss Opal Bishop, escaped with two slight cuts on her right foot.

Another party of Texans driving to Michigan were about fifty feet behind the Bishop machine and brought the injured people to the Emergency Hospital for treatment. They verified the fact that the car flopped sideways, making three complete revolutions. The Bishop family remained in Sikeston at a tourist camp awaiting repairs to their automobile.

HOT CHA MELONS RUIN 20 TONS ICE

One of the much appreciated services rendered during the summer months by the Missouri Utilities Ice Plant here, is the free cooling of watermelons for Sikestonians. But rendering free service can occasionally prove costly, as was demonstrated last week.

Householders who deposit 1 or 2 in the cooling room are welcome to do so, and when a hotel brought a wagon load the company extended the use of the main storage room.

Heat from the unusually large number of melons raised the temperature in the room to such an extent that twenty tons of ice "melted together" forming a young glacier.

NEGRO ADMITS OTHER CRIMES AT CHARLESTON

Clem Huston, Mississippi County negro, who a few days ago was brought to Poplar Bluff three jumps ahead of a mob that wanted to lynch him for an alleged attack on a 17-year-old white girl, near Wyatt, confessed to Sheriff Jackson of Mississippi County yesterday that he "grabbed the girl and tore her clothing".

Jackson came to Poplar Bluff to talk to the negro. Huston, apparently nervous and frightened, readily acknowledged that he had accosted the girl but would not acknowledge an attempt at criminal assault. He was taken back to his cell in the county jail here after nearly an hour of questioning.

Huston also confessed to Sheriff Jackson the recent robbery of a store in Mississippi County and also the burglarly of a dwelling. From the store he took a quantity of clothing, including shirts, shoes and overalls and also a large amount of tobacco. In jail here, he was wearing an overall jumper stolen from this store. From the dwelling he took a small amount of jewelry.

Wants to Stay Here

Huston made a plea to be allowed to remain in jail here instead of being returned to Mississippi County.

"I wants to stay here boss", he told Sheriff Jackson, when asked if he would like to accompany the officer back home. Huston, local jailers say, remains in his cell all day only emerging long enough to get his food pan at meal time.

Feeling against Huston in Mississippi and New Madrid Counties is still high, and he will probably be kept in jail here for some time to come. The local jail, on the roof of the courthouse is practically mob proof.

A mob of several hundred in automobiles chased for miles, officers who were racing with Huston for the New Madrid County jail to prevent a lynching. "At times", one of the officers said, "we were about three minutes ahead of some of these pursuing cars. We barely got our prisoner to jail in time".—Poplar Bluff American.

How Presidential Nominees Stand On Prohibition Issue

Here is a condensed summary of the prohibition utterances of the rival presidential candidates, President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt:

Mr. Hoover, in his acceptance speech Thursday night, said:

"It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we resummon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our government demands shall rest upon the States and local authorities. That change must avoid the return of the saloon.

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change * * * is that each State shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each State from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other States".

What Mr. Hoover said in his 1928 acceptance speech:

"I do not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder.

"Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively.

"Common sense compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred—abuses which must be remedied. An organized searching investigation of fact and causes can alone determine the wise method of correcting them".

What Mr. Hoover said in transmitting the Wickersham Commission's prohibition report to 'Congress:

"The commission by a large majority does not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view.

"I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic and political evils of this traffic, to preserve the gains which have been made, and to eliminate the abuses which exist, at the same time facing with an open mind the difficulties which have arisen under this experiment".

What Franklin D. Roosevelt said in accepting the Democratic presidential nomination:

"This convention wants repeal. Your candidate wants repeal. And I am confident that the United States of America wants repeal. * *

"I say to you now that from this date on the eighteenth amendment is doomed. When that happens, we as Democrats must and will rightly and morally enable the States to protect themselves against the importation of intoxicating liquors where such importations may violate their State laws. We must rightly and morally prevent the return of the saloon".

Subsequently, Mr. Roosevelt in a speech said:

"If the present Congress takes no action, I shall urge the new Congress to carry out these provisions", referring to the party platform recommendations for repeal and "immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize the manufacutre and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution".

W. C. T. U. HEAD DENOUNCES HOOVER PROHIBITION POLICY

Seattle, Wash., August 12.—President Hoover's advocacy of a revision of national prohibition was denounced as foreshadowing a "destructive change", by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

"American statesmanship cannot work out a solution that will be effective", she commented in a formal statement, "which will make this country part wet and part dry. The proposed plan will be opposed by the dry forces every step of the way".

The leader of the national W. C. T. U. for the last seven years, who a few hours previously had announced she would retire at the end of her present term of office, went on to explain her stand.

"The proposed amendment", she said, "which would in effect repeal the eighteenth amendment and destroy national prohibtion, would give States the right to deal with the problem as they see fit.

"It will not solve the problem but will create new problems even more difficult. The amendment suggested plans for a destructive change".

FORMER BLODGETT WOMAN KILLED IN ST. LOUIS CRASH

Mrs. Claude Barnes of St. Louis, formerly Miss Mary Lee Graham, Blodgett, was killed last Friday afternoon when her automobile collided with a truck driven by Harry Roy, Jr., in St. Louis.

Other occupants of the car including Ben Marshall, Jr., 5-year-old son of Mrs. Ben Marshall of St. Louis, Mrs. Barnes' mother-in-law, Mrs. Florence Barnes, and her sister-in-law, Miss Frieda Barnes, both of Blodgett, escaped with very slight injuries.

According to a St. Louis newspaper account of the tragedy, Mrs. Barnes was hurled through the left front door of the automobile against a lamp post.

Internal injuries and a leg fracture resulted. She was pronounced dead following her arrival at Missouri Baptist Hospital.

Mrs. Barnes, who was 20 years old, was reared in Blodgett and attended high school there. Later she taught in a private school in St. Louis. E. C. Graham and W. O. Graham of Blodgett are her uncles.

The Marshall child, who was in the accident, but escaped without injury, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marshall, who lived on North Lorimier street, Cape Girardeau, until about six years ago. At that time the family moved to Blodgett, but is now living in St. Louis.

Mrs. Barnes had been a frequent visitor in Sikeston at the home of Mrs. Florence Marshall.

The W. B. A. Westway Club will hold its meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Clarence Marshall on Harris Avenue. All members are asked to be present.

The little house setting on the vacant lot in front of The Standard office, we hope, is not one of Chic Sales' specials, and will not be a permanent institution.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT METED TO SLAYER OF CHILD WIFE

Larry Hargraves, 25, farmer, and former Flint, Mich., auto plant worker was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Penitentiary by Judge Frank Kelly in Circuit Court last Friday for the slaying of his wife, Beulah, last March 31, in a church at Perkins.

Formal sentence was passed on Hargraves four days after he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of murder in the second degree. His attorney Judge Finch had asked that sentence be deferred in order that the testimony of alienists might be presented.

He had been unable to obtain the services of such experts, however, at the expiration of the time granted by the Court.

Hargraves was mentally unbalanced at the time because of worry over being estranged from his wife, who was 18, acording to his attorney. M. E. Montgomery, Prosecuting Attorney, argued a revenge motive for the slaying.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargraves were married without the consent of her parents, but following the ceremony, all was forgiven and the parents gave their blessing. The young people then moved to Flint, Mich., where Hargraves found employment.

After a time, the young wife announced to her husband that she was to be a mother, and a consultation with doctors followed. Mrs. Hargraves had been partially crippled since birth and an operation was deemed advisable to save her life.

In bringing up the revenge motive, Attorney Montgomery quoted Hargraves as saying "She killed my baby, and I'll kill her". The attorney for the defense argued that the young husband was mentally unbalance, when he walked into the Perkins Baptist church revival meeting and calmly fired the fatal shots.

Hargraves did not plead for clemency, but requested that nothing be said to injure her character.

ICE PICK IN TIRE CAUSES BLOWOUT AFTER SIKESTON-MORLEY DRIVE

H. T. Kerr and Mrs. H. J. Welsh have one for the book, or for Ripley. Mr. Kerr drove the Welsh automobile Saturday, but the trip was halted near Morley by a flat. An hour later a mechanic was puzzled to find, what might have been a nail point protruding from the casing.

The cause of it all was an ice pick, fully developed, inside of the tire between the casing and inner tube.

Mr. Welsh later recalled that a mechanic is Festus, last May, had used a similar tool in gouging small tacks and rcoks out of the casing. The tire was put on a rear wheel early Saturday morning.

BOWMAN INFANT DIES

We regret to learn of the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bowman last Saturday. The child was born last Thursday and apparently was in good health until convulsions developed.

Hugh Stewart and Miss Gladys Swinney were in Cape, Sunday.

Eddie Mathis and H. T. Kerr spent Sunday in St. Louis and witnessed the Cards-Cubs doubleheader that afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bowman and daughters, and Mrs. W. C. Bowman returned Sunday night from an 8-day trip to Chicago, Lake Delavan, Wis., and Springfield, Ill.

Robert M. Horn was arrested August 12 by Trooper Charles E. Pierson on a charge of reckless driving. Horn was released under bond for appearance August 18.

Miss Maud Adams, Albert Keith Bess and Miss Mildred Williams of Poplar Bluff were in Blodgett, Sunday afternoon, having gone to view the remains of Mrs. Claude Barnes, which was brought that afternoon to Blodgett from St. Louis. The remains will lie in state at the home of E. C. Graham until this (Tuesday) afternoon.

Tonight (Tuesday) at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cox the members of the L. A. W. Class of the First Christian church, with their husbands and friends, will enjoy a watermelon feast. All members are cordially invited to be present. This is an annual affair of the class and Mrs. Cox and daughter, Mrs. Glenn Matthews, will be the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren T. Kingsbury and small daughter of Marshall, Mo., are here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Sikes. Mrs. Sikes is a sister of Kingsbury. Warren has had divers and sundry experience since he taught scohol in Sikeston and helped put out The Sikeston Standard. From here he went to Texas and attempted to get rich and his only returns were experience, a wife and babe. Then he professored at Marshall, Mo., where he is now teaching higher ideals to young ladies and gentlemen. We were mighty glad to see him.

PRIMARY BALLOT BILL CAUSES COURT WRANGLE TUESDAY

The Scott County Court last Tuesday instructed J. Sherwood Smith, clerk, to inform The Sikeston Standard to submit a new bill setting out a charge along more reasonable lines than the bill of $3042.80 as filed with the clerk on July 30th for printing Scott County primary election ballots.

Comment in Sikeston's second newspaper last week set forth the situation in part, but with customary election time prejudice omitted a complete digest of the proposition in order to reflect unfavorably upon this newspaper.

As a matter of fact, the bill filed by The Sikeston Standard and on record in the office of the County Clerk calls for:

728	Socialist ballots	$ 58.24
728	Soc. Labor ballots....	58.24
728	Prohibition ballots ...	58.24
8568	Republican	257.04
8568	Democratic	257.04
280	Absentee ballots	56.00
250	Demo. Sample ballots.	25.00
250	Rep. sample ballots...	25.00
50	Soc. sample ballots...	16.00
	Soc. Labor sample bal...	16.00
50	Pro. sample bal.	16.00

Or a total of 19,970 ballots of eleven assortments at a total of $842.80. Now comes the charge for changes as specified in the County Clerk's order dated July 15, based upon Section 10451 Election Laws of the State of Missouri, 1932, which says:

"At all such primary elections there shall be as many separate tickets as there are parties entitled to participate in such primary election. The names of all candidates shall be arranged under the appropriate title of the respective offices and under the proper party designated upon the party ticket: Provided, however, the names of the candidates for each office shall be so alternated on the ballots used in the several wards that each name shall appear thereon substantially an equal number of times at the top, at the bottom and in each intermedite place, if any, of the list or group of names in which such candidate's name may belong, and all officers charged with preparation and distribution of such ballots shall cause the printer's forms to be so transposed and the ballots so made up so to carry out the intent of this provision. The intent hereof being that the board of election commissioners shall arrange the names on the respective ballots differently in the respective wards of such city".

And for these changes or alternations, charge of 50 cents each was made, and on these ballots there are 358 changes on the Socialist, 22 on the Socialist Labor, 22 on the Prohibitionist, 1366 changes on the Republican, and 2632 changes on the Democratic ballots, making a total of 4400 changes on eleven sets of ballots for twenty-eight precincts or wards, for which a charge of $2200 was made.

In an effort to discredit this newspaper and job shop, another Sikeston paper attempts to compare prices charged by shops in other nearby Counties without commenting on this all-important factor in cost determination. Inasmuch as The Sikeston Standard did not print ballots for Pemiscot or St. Francois Counties, it is impossible to state whether the ballots were printed according to law or not.

With respect to that point, it should be mentioned that the Missouri Statutes specifically indicate that each name on the ballot shall appear an equal number of times at the top of the ballot in each precinct. In order to affect these changes, it was necessary during the printing of the Scott County ballots to stop and start the press four thousand, four hundred times, with its attendant loss of time for one pressman, one checker, one mechanic who made the changes, one bookkeeper, and one person whose job it was to keep the thousands of ballots in proper rotation.

It is our understanding that in several counties, the governing body, the County Court specifically instructed the printer NOT to make all the changes required by law, or to change the specified form of the ballot in order to affect savings. IN THE CASE OF SCOTT COUNTY SPECIFIC INSRUCTIONS WERE ISSUED, AND CONSEQUENTLY THE ELECTION LAWS OF MISSOURI WERE RELIGIOUSLY FOLLOWED. The County Court now attempts to find reasons for disputing the charges which are no more nor less than charged in complicated bill or poster work in commercial printing.

Following a discussion with the court over the matter, Mr. R. T. Porte, whose "Franklin Printing Catalog" is the accepted price determining medium in the trade was contacted for an opinion on the disputed charges. The price list is used by all legitimate shops whose credit is rated par or above. Says Mr. Porte in part:

"We note that you charged 50 cents each for the changes, and this seems to us at least low enough, especially if all the ballots were about as large as the sample you sent us. If anything, the charge should be more than 50 cents per change. There were about 4400 changes, all told, and at only 50 cents each, the changes alone would amount to $2200. Based on this, your total charge of $3042.80 appears very reasonable to us".

The management of The Sikeston Standard feels that members of the County Court are honestly attempting to arrive at a legitimate cost basis for the Primary Election ballots, and that the matter will be amicably settled, even though a comparison with costs in other counties is hardly a fair medium of comparison especially when the number of changes, length and size of ballot, and other factors are not clearly outlined.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT OFFERS REWARD FOR ARREST OF VANDALS STEALING DANGER LIGHTS, SIGNALS

In a signed communication to seven Southeast Missouri newspapers A. R. Towse, division 10 highway engineer, offers on behalf of the department a reward of $25 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any party or parties removing or damaging any Highway signs, barricades or lights.

Since the first of June, the maintenance department has had a crew working through Mississippi, Scott, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin Counties placing concrete patches on concrete roads.

More difficulty has been encountered in this district in keeping signs and danger lights adjacent to these projects at night than in any other part of the State, says Mr. Towse in his letter to newspapers. It is frequently necessary to leave a few of the "patch holes" open where patches will be poured early the following day. However, in each of these cases black and white barricades are erected on each side of the hole and three signs, the first reading "slow", the second "road repairs ahead", and the third "one-way traffic" are placed in front of each sign.

It is this series of barricades, signs and oil torches that is being bothered by vandals.

A case in Dunklin County recently is mentioned, in which the removal or destruction of the lights and signs resulted in four serious wrecks. Mr. Towse continues: "A few nights ago in Dunklin County, 21 lights were stolen, which cost a considerable sum of money. The barricades and signs were thrown off the road into the ditch with the result that four cars plunged into the open holes, with serious damage to each of the cars. This happened between Kennett and Cardwell, and we have a fairly accurate description of the car and occupants, but so far have been unable to locate either.

"From the standpoint of the department, to say the least, it is disgusting to attempt to maintain and repair roads in communities where such acts of depredation continue to take place, endangering the lives and property of those who might happen over the same piece of road later when the lights and barricades have been removed and I will appreciate it if you will give us your cooperation in bringing this to the attention of the people in your community rather forcibly in your next edition".

Neely Miller, a former resident of Oran but now of Puxico, Stoddard County, was a Sikeston visitor Monday and paid The Standard office a social call. He reports crop conditions over his way as being good.

SCRATCH ON FOOT FATAL TO KEWANEE WOMAN WEDNESDAY

Mary Mageline, wife of Clifford Schaffer, of Kewanee, died last Wednesday morning, 11 o'clock of Tetanus, which developed from a small scratch on her foot.

Rev. G. W. Moncey, evangelist of the Free Pentecost church, conducted funeral services at the home last Thursday morning, 10 o'clock. Interment was in Kewanee cemetery.

Surviving the death of Mrs. Schaffer are her husband and small son, J. D. Schaffer, six brothers, two sisters and her parents.

MAYFIELD GOLFERS DEFEAT SIKESTON

Twenty members of the Sikeston golf association were guests Sunday afternoon of the Mayfield, Ky., County Club, but were defeated in match play by a score of 38 to 19.

The official score sheet is not available at this time to permit publication of individual scores, but in general, the Sikeston scores were nothing to write home about. Each member on the course, however, will agree that Mayfield has a first rate, sporty course and that grass greens require a different attack than do the conventional Southeast Missouri sand greens.

The Mayfield Club boasts a modern club house, fishing and boating, tennis and golf and the visiting Missourians were accorded every courtesy. The city itself has a population approaching ten thousand and is noted for its unusual number of beautiful homes.

EDMISTON HAS CHANCE TO LIVE

According to a close friend of the family, Hubert Edmiston of Kennett, who was shot and critically wounded last Wednesday night during an altercation with his wife and another woman in Malden, has a chance to live.

An examination by doctors in a Memphis hospital revealed that the bullet did not puncture the intestines, although the slug passed entirely through Edmiston's body. He has more than a 50-50 chance to recover, this informant stated, but had to pass the crisis Monday.

Edmiston and the third member of the triangle were accosted at a small restaurant and filling station in Malden about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night. After beating the woman over the head with the revolver, Mrs. Edmiston shot her husband, and then accompanied him to the hospital.

LIONS TO MEET WITH FIRE FIGHTERS

According to John G. Powell, president of the Sikeston Lions Club, the organization will meet Wednesday noon with visiting and local members of the Southeast Missouri Fire Fighters Association in the Methodist church basement. Sikeston is sponsoring a free luncheon to the visiting firemen and guests, and the Lions will join the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Jones rarived Saturday for a visit with the latter's mother and sister, Mrs. Putnam and Miss Lillian Putnam.

UNDERTAKER KILLS LARGE BOBCAT ON HIGHWAY NEAR HAYTI

Louis LaForge, Caruthersville undertaker, while driving to Pascola last Saturday night felt a lurch as his car struck some object on Highway 84 near Hayti. He investigated.

A bob cat measuring an inch less than three feet from nose to tip of tail was found dead. The car had passed over the front part of its body causing instant death.

Mr. LaForge kept the body in a cold storage vault until Tuesday morning, when the pelt was removed. It will later be converted into a rug or tanned to preserve this unusually large specimen which is rapidly losing ground in forests of this section.

It has always been the practice of The Standard management to have sufficient finances on hand to take care of pay checks in order not to embarrass employees and merchants who accept them in good faith, and for that reason expect a living profit on work turned out in this office. At no time have our merchants, and merchants from other communities whom we have served, had cause to complain of our charges. It seems strange at this time that Sikeston's second newspaper takes such delight in attempting to lead the public to believe that The Standard management is out to hold up the taxpayers of Scott County for the printing of the ballots for the primary election. The law makers of the State are responsible for the charge not The Standard management. The writer of the article in Sikeston's second newspaper was rather malicious in his story and deliberately gave but part facts in order to mislead and prejudice the minds of its readers.

The Standard editor is in receipt of a letter from Senator Roy McKittrick, nominee for Attorney General on the Democratic ticket, calling our attention to a misstatement as to his vote on the Brunk hearing in the State Senate during the last session. He informs us that his vote was cast the same as was the vote of Senator Dearmont and in no way was a whitewash of Brunk. This is given the same publicity as was the other statement criticising Senator McKittrick as we have no wish to make a false statement against Senator McKittrick, or any other candidate. It is our intention to vote for and support Senator McKittrick, along with the entire ticket at the November election.

We once heard a story of two English boys who were passing a tobacco store. One suggested that he had a half penny and if the other would add a similar coin that they would get a smoke. The bargain was made and the speaker hurried into the shop and came out with a penny cigar lighted in his mouth. After the pair had gone for several blocks the latest investor inquired if it was not his time to smoke as he contributed half the purchase price. The buyer replied: "I am the chairman of this company; you are a shareholder. You can spit". This story is a fair illustration of the rights of an average shareholder in a corporation, and of the avreage man of today against the powers that be.—Jackson Cash-Book.

Mrs. Hattie Caraway was given a 2 to 1 majority in Arkansas in the primary and for the next six years that State will have petticoat representative in the United States Senate. Unless conditions in Arkansas change a lot by the time Senator Robinson's time expires, he will be retired, as every candidate he had in the field was defeated.

Sikeston is not threatened with an epidemic of typhoid fever from having impure or infected drinking water in the city wells, but a resident writes this newspaper to inquire when nearby dairies which supply the city with milk for babies and grownups were last inspected for sanitation. We are not bringing charges against any producer of milk, and we do not believe that the writer of the unsigned letter had anything in mind to discredit them, but medical authorities claim that the four "F's" of typhoid, filth, flies, fingers and food should be religiously watched. "Flies are the joy automobiles of typhoid germs" is the quotation of Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the University of Missouri faculty.

Just before going to the post for the Presidential Race, Mr. Hoover is now attempting to get all the Republican Rail Birds lined up to cheer the horses as they come down the chute. Three years of his administration has come and gone and every change of the moon he has put out some different scheme to induce Old Prosperity from around the corner. Now as a last attempt he is calling for the Brightest Minds and Longest Pocketbooks to meet him in solemn conference, and confidence, and start an advance on the Depression all along the line. We de not know how it is to be done, but will be glad if the last charge of the Republican Brigade brings about the results promised for more than three years.

It has come to our attention that boys and young men have been using the cemetery for a play ground, playing ball, shooting craps driving cars promiscuously over the sacred precincts and at night couples resorting to this spot as a trysting place. This should be stopped instantly as this is no place for a playground.

Sikeston ought to be a safe place to live as the expense of about $300 per month for police protection is contracted for. Besides, we have Chickie Jewell as constable who will give attention to calls for his services. The police court record shows few arrests for misdemeanors and general cussedness.

We would like to see Franklin D. Roosevelt declare for reform of the pension rolls. They should be purged of the doctors and the multitude of other civilians who were given high official military rank and who now draw several times as much money per month as do private soldiers who were wounded in battle. Ninety per cent of them, it is safe to say, came out of the service as healthy as when they went in. Ninety-nine per cent of them, an investigation would reveal, are now practicing their professions. Instead of the billion dollars a year, the nation now spend on world war veterans the sum probably would not be more than one-tenth as much if the pension bounties were limited to men who were injured on the firing line. The real blame for present abuses and unjust drains on the treasury belongs to Congressmen who spend so much of their time in adding the names of constituents to the pension rolls.—Paris Appeal.

Just as we predicted, the "drys" are not convinced that Missouri is "wet' even though a big majority of the congressional nominees on both tickets are "wet" and both U. S. Senators the same way. We read an assertion of the head of the W. C. T. U. to the effect that the election proved nothing. We agree with her. A great many people of "dry" sentiment supported Bennett Clark and certain congressmen because of the other things which each stod for. And we know a number of "wets" who went down to defeat with Charley Hay, the "dryest" of them all. Until we actually vote on prohibition there will be no true sentiment on the question. There will be quite a difference in the way Missouri members of the next congress vote on the 18th amendment or Volstead act, for where an overwhelming majority were "dry" before, they will be "wet" next time.—Shelbina Democrat.

We have repeatedly stated that we intended to write a true and complete account of the Democratic primary fight for governor during the campaign just closed. We have always bragged about saying just what we thought, but find that we are yielding to persuasion and will desist until after the fall election. We yield solely for the benefit of a few friends. However, we do refuse to pass up one incident or two which worked hardships on our cause. In the first place, the endorsement of Nellie Burger of Senator Dearmont's candidacy cost us 50,000 votes. We do not care how or for what purpose it was intended, it was an idiotic step. If this nomination was seriously desired it did most to defeat the object which it was intended to accomplish. The second incident was the now famous letter of Editor Naeter to Piano Tuner Stanley. This letter had no weight in the territory in which the editor's sheet circulates, as evidenced by the vote, but it was used with telling affect by the opposition in other sections of the State. We are advised that Naeter says he did not write the letter as published. We would not take his word for it, but if he didn't he was not man enough to come clean with a correction. Further, what little editorial recognition his paper gave Senator Dearmont, was equally as damaging. Naeter's paper like most of the dry leaders make impossible the ends they profess to be bent upon attaining.—Jackson Cash Book.

They Say—Says The Man About Town

By ART L. WALLHAUSEN

Every once in awhile a visitor from another world in the form of a small or large fragment of rock and mineral falls on the earth. Scientists of our day know to the second when to expect a shower of such heavenly rockets, but wonderment still exists in our mind and in that of millions of other laymen to whom the reckoning of wise men is utter confusion.

Last week the arrival of the meteor Perseids was accurately foretold, and our earthly press associations recorded the falling and finding of three fragments in our sector of the universe.

As we look upward at twinkling stars it is easy enough to imagine objects "falling" to earth, but when we remember that each object in without question is, surrounded by the starry heavens might be, and certan forces of gravitation and that the fragments which fall on our planet had to be hurled into the infinite realms of space PAST this area of force before it could fall or be attracted by the gravitational pull of earth, then we have cause for amazement, and reason to appreciate the wisdom and the power of the Supreme Engineer, call it God, Nature or whatnot, who keeps the cosmic universe in order, and each component part on its predestined and charted course.

Earth dwellers including this unit are prone to build about themselves an importance out of all proportion.

In our imagination the whole universe revolves about us as an axis. But when a visitor from the blue pays a call we should be dwarfed into insignificence provided our imagination works as it should. Philosophers and scientist must come to our rescue when we transcend the limits of our own litle planet.

After all, men in their wisdom are not so darned smart after all. We know, for instance, how to build receiving and sending radio sets, but what happens in between, no living human being knows. This is not my quotation, nor that of Arthur Brisbane. It is the statement of a young man, now 32 years old, who is the president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Thes ame is true of television, and of electricity in general. Any school child and student of physics can diagram the innards of a generator and of a meter, but no living scientist can tell you WHAT electricity is. It is force, directed, controlled, measured and transmitted, but what is force?

Ever since we learned that a paragraph in this column sold a subscription to the paper, we have been suffering from enlargement of the cranial dome.

You haven't by any chance seen us wearing a hat!

Cockroaches and okra. The former, science tells us, have not changed their size, or habits since the Silurian age, a time when all things earthly lived in slime.

We sincerely believe that Okra or Gumbo started in the same age, and that the stuff hasn't changed for the better since.

An eel in a tub of slime is gritty compared with a mess of gumbo.

We would rather argue about pot likker, or whether pumpkin pie should be spelled p u m p k i n or p u n k i n pie.

Most of life is spent doing things the wrong, "easy" way, before giving in to the more difficult correct way. And learning that the right way is after all the easiest.

D. W. finds fault with newspapers and this one in particular "because it never gets anything exactly right".

That is the most severe criticism that can be handed one in the game of gathering and writing news for public consumption. We know the fault exists, but a few moments spent in thought should tell D. W. that there's a reason. Bring together any five persons and allow them to witness an automobile accident. Ask them specifically to pay attention to the who, when, where, who and HOW of the accident, and then relate what they saw in fifty or seventy-five words, and you will have five different news stories, each the same in general, but differing widely in some aspects. News gatherers rarely wintess a news story in the making. The accuracy of 99 out of 100 "stories" depends upon the accuracy of witnesses, and their ability to see what happened, and then relate the actual facts wihtout distortion.

If D. W. can invent some method of extracting every bit of inaccuracy from news stories, she will be driving an imported Spizzeraktum "16" within 30 days.

At any rate, we are always glad to receive criticism.

And we often wonder whether anyone reads this column of bunk, hokum and nonsense.

What some people lack in push they try to make up with "pull".

Last Monday was an ill-fated day, not for us particularly, but in general.

First of all the community was thoroughly shocked by the cold-blooded murder of a negro girl by her enraged and jealous had-been boy friend.

To keep the good work going, Chief and Chick picked up another of the smoky tribe who last November settled a crap game argument with pistol bullets, one of which glanced off of the cranium of his brother-in-law inflicting a scalp wound. The one fired upon also received a slug in his heel, which gives an innocent bystander some idea of what said injured negro was doing about that time.

With excitement still going strong, Monty arrives from Benton with the information that Larry Hargraves had pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree in connection with the fatal church shooting of his pretty, blonde wife last March 31.

That kept things moving for awhile, but around 4:30 o'clock, Chief Kendall drops a guarded hint that "they hadem sortofa go round in Charleston this morning".

A bit of pumping by Sheriff Tom Scott revealed that the "go round" started when a negro boy hugged and kissed a white girl, and the go round was still going with some sixty men trying to connect a bit of Manila with the Negro Problem.

That made a bit of last minute news copy.

Later in the day, long about 7:30 o'clock "Our Jewell" captured the slayer of Ledonia, who was walking in the general direction of St. Louis, having covered approximately five miles of the distance when overtaken.

Tuesday turned out to be more or less of a hangover of Monday.

To starts things off with a rush, Charley Mitchell had to try muffling a 12 gauge shotgun with his hand. Charley lost the argument, but kindly doctors believe they can salvage a thumb and a forefinger. Mr. Mitchell intended to kill rats when the accident happened. We express our regret over this acident, but rejoice with the family and good-natured Charley that it was no worse than that.

We had the pleasure Tuesday morning of meeting Mr. Watkins of Mounds, Ill., who offered another incident to confirm our suspicion about Monday. Two boys hanging on to the side of a car between Cairo and Mounds Monday night were side swiped by another car. Both of the lads were killed.

We have not consulted our horoscope, but we believe with others that a witch tail must have crossed the star which otherwise would have prevented a double or triple dose of hard luck in this community.

Negroes are peculiar folks. The fact that one of their number had stained his hands with the blood of another in the settlement of a love pact seemed to excite very little excitement—outwardly. They are a peculiar People, highly emotional and yet more constrained under certain conditions than those of our race.

Seldom do you hear of one negro "squealing" on another.

Two negroes in Sikeston offered the same solution to the crime insofar as finding the criminal is concerned. "To find the man that killed Ledonia, all you has to do is to bury her face down wid a egg in each hand".

Another old negro woman offered the same remedy, but suggested the eggs be placed under Ledonia's armpits.

In some voodo or hoodo manner this rite was to bring Pete Allen back to the scene of the crime.

One of the women swears she slipped eggs under the arms, but Coronor George Dempster cold bloodedly says "Nix".

We are of the opinion the eggs were scrambled for breakfast.

We know one thing for certain. Tip Keller will stand a contempt of court suit before serving on another coroner's jury twenty minutes after leaving his morning breakfast. He left part of his breakfast as it is, if you get what we mean.

We're so subtle that way?

We hope we are not getting personal with some of our personal friends when we stop to observe that some are getting wide-hipped by sitting pretty.

The other day we heard a small restaurant owner lashing the churches for sponsoring dinners while the s. r. o. struggled with his taxes, rent, overhead and small patronage.

"It's a poor sort of christianity that demands something under the belt in return for 35 or 50 cents given the Lord".

And in our more sane moments we are almost compelled to agree with him.

Still, the restaurant mob rarely if ever forsakes the regular stomping ground to participate in a church dinner. Which evens things up a little.

Herbies campaign photograph is another example of the black magic of the photographer's Art. Not a wrinkle in a full face!

We suggest as an untried but worthwhile suggestion to the National G. O. P., that all the Hoover commissions appointed in the past four years be lined up, or rather massed in some valley, and photographed. Each member could be armed with a spy glass, fountain pen and note book under the caption: "Shock Troops, On With the Battle".

The largest beetle of the 100,000 known in the world is the brown Goliath beetle of equatorial Africa. It is about four inches long.

While on a fishing trip recently John Clifft set out some bank lines at the mouth of James Bayou one of which caught a fish large enough to pull it into the river. Every effort was made to capture the pole and fish but it made for the channel and got away. The next day parties at Higgerson Landing, four miles below where the pole was put out, took it from the river with it's catch, a sixteen pound catfish.—East Prairie Eagle.

CONSTIPATION

The Curse of the Ages

Has Science at Last Solved This Great Problem of the Human Race ?

NEW DISCOVERY BRINGS LASTING RELIEF TO THOUSANDS

Medical Authorities Agree That Old Fashioned Purgatives, Salts, Oils, Cathartics and Laxatives Have Never Cured Constipation and Never Will.

Remarkable Treatment Discovered

The commonest and greatest curse of mankind is constipation. It is man's greatest enemy. It poisons him, slows him down mentally and physically, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages him prematurely and leaves him an easy victim to the attack of almost countless diseases. Millions are virtual slaves to the laxative habit, without obtaining real or permanent relief.

Cathartics do relieve constipation for the time being, but their effect is only temporary at best and the more we resort to such artificial aids, the more we require, because their continued use weakens the natural action of the bowels.

AN AMAZING DISCOVERY

Medical Science has discovered that bile, prepared by the liver, is a natural laxative and that people with a normal flow of bile are practically immune to constipation. Furthermore, we now know that bile is an antiseptic and anti-acid and combats putrefaction and the formation of gas in the bowels. It's also a digestant without which proper digestion and assimilation is impossible.

A QUART A DAY

But when our livers become inactive or sluggish and fail to pour into the intestinal tract the necessary quart of bile each day, we suffer from constipation, indigestion, headaches, biliousness, sour stomach and many other common ailments. Recent reports indicate that probably seven out of every ten persons past thirty years old suffer frequently from lack of bile due to a sluggish liver.

OLD THEORIES OVERTURNED

Until the discovery of Sargon Soft Mass Pills it has been the common practice to blast out the intestines with calomel and other drastic cathartics and purges, believing that they stimulated the liver. But Modern Medical Science has now learned that calomel, salts, oils and other laxative drugs have no effect whatever on the liver or its production of bile.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED

A world wide search has been carried on for a harmless substance which would actually invigorate a sluggish liver to normal production of bile—Nature's Great Weapon Against Constipation. This has been accomplished.

The principal ingredient in Sargon Soft Mass Pills is an amazing substance which the highest medical authorities agree is the most effective stimulant to the bile producing activity of the liver known to Materia Medica.

Unlike calomel or other cathartics, this substance does not shock or upset the system, cause nausea or other ill effects.

It does its work by gently but steadily stimulating the liver to cleanse itself through increasing its production of bile, which is a more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

So remarkable are the results from Sargon Soft Mass Pills that they are sweeping the Nation: over 135 Million have been sold in the past four years. The great Sargon Laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, have been obliged to steadily increase production to meet the rapidly growing demand.

STATE AND COUNTY CROPS REPORTED IN FAIR CONDITION

In Scott County, the August condition of corn is by your farmers put at 59 per cent of a full crop. Threshing results to this time show wheat averages 7.5 bushels per acre, and total county production should be 235,880 bushels. August conditions for other crops in Scott County are oats 32 per cent, potatoes 35 per cent, soybeans 50 per cent, tame hay 51 per cent, pastures 30 per cent, and grapes (the most promising Missouri fruit this year) 56 per cent for our section.

Missouri corn August condition of 81 per cent indicates 29 bushels per acre totaling 182,932,000 bushels, from 6,308,000 acres planted. Yield last year was 170,006,000 bushels from 6,184,000 acres, averaging 27.5 bushels. Condition one year ago was 77 per cent. Corn has been helped somewhat by rain in early August.

Winter wheat averages 11.2 bushels per acre, totaling 15,994,000 bushels from 1,428,000 acres harvested. The 1931 total was 29,800,000 bushels, averages 20 bushels per acre on 1,490,000 acres. Threshing has been mostly completed, with quality fair, with yields in uplands showing very great variation.

The oat crop was seriously injured by May drouth. The average, from 58 per cent condition, is 15.5 bushels per acre, totaling 30,644,000 bushels from 1,977,000 acres, compared to 50,355,000 bushels last year from 1,865,000 acres averaging 27 bushels. A large portion of oats seding in southern counties was cut for hay.

The hay crop was short nearly everywhere, averaging .75 tons per acre for mixed tame hay on 2,632,000 acres, totaling 1,974,000 tons—813,000 tons under 1931 production of 2,788,000 tons. Acreage of timothy, red clover and mixed timothy and clover has been heavily reduced this year.

Milk production is from about same number of cows per farm as last year, although farmers seem to be milking a larger proportion, and average per cow is 11 pounds against 10.2 last year. Egg production is from a larger number of hens per farm, but the egg laying rate is somewhat under last August. Pastures are short in nearly all sections. Fruit crops are low, except grapes.

NANCE DISCUSSES HOPPER DAMAGE AND CONTROL IN NEW MADRID COUNTY

Two instances of rather serious damage to crops by grasshoppers in New Madrid County have been called to the Extension Agents attention in the last week or so. One of these was near LaForge and the other near Canalou. There are probably other sections in which there has been similar damage, but of which no reports have been made. Fortunately hte damage reported is restricted to limited areas. It is also fortunate that such injurious grasshoppers have only one generation per year, and since this one brood has already reached maturity that those regions in which grasshoppers have not already shown up in considerable numbers will probably escape damage this year. It is generally believed in the middle and far Western States that when two dry seasons occur in succession serious outbreaks occur during the second. Whether this be true or not, it is known that dry weather is favorable to the hatching and development of these pests. On the other hand, cool wet weather is unfavorable and grasshoppers die in great numbers from diseases, etc., when such weather prevails.

Methods of Control

About the only possible method of control of grasshoppers in cotton, corn or forage crps is by the use of poisoned baits. As prepared for ordinary use this is made as follows: Wheat bran, 50 lbs.; crude arsenic or Paris green, 2 pounds lemons or oranges, 12 finely chopped fruits; low-grade molasses, such as refuse from sugar factories, or cattle molasses, known as 'black strap", 1 gallon; water, 4 to 8 gallons, acording to climatic conditions. Where citrus fruits are expensive, it has been found perfectly satisfactory to substitute amyl acetate at the rate of 1½ ounces to 50 pounds of the wheat bran. The amyl acetate may be added to the diluted molasses before this is poured over the bran. Crushed ripe tomatoes, watermelons, or limes may be substituted for the lemons or oranges where necessary.

The bran and arsenical are thoroughly mixed while dry, the fruits are then finely chopped and added, and lastly the diluted molasses is pourde over the bait and the whole thoroughly kneadde. This amount of poisoned bait is sufficient to treat about 6 acres when the grasshoppers first hatch. Later when they are nearly full grown, this amount will suffice for about 10 acres if sown broadcast in strips one rod apart. A coarse-flaker bran is most desirable, although where this cannot be obtained easily ordinary middlings or alfalfa meal may be substituted; a low-grade strong smelling sirup or molasses however is essential to the entire success of the undertaking. Where desirable, sawdust may be substituted in part for the wheat bran, but in no case should the sawdust be added to a greater extent than 50 per cent of the whole. Ordinary crude arsenic (arsenious acid) contains nearly Arsenate of Lead is not satisfac-Green and is much lower in price. twice as much arsenic as Paris tory as a grasshopper poison because fo its comparatively slow action.

This poison bait should be scattered early in the morning, preferably before it becomes fully light in the places where the insects spend the night. Farmers should not become discouraged if the grasshoppers do not drop dead immediately upon eating this bait, for it takes from 1 to 5 days for the full effects of the poison to become apparent. More detailed information in regard to the control of these pests may be secured by calling at the County Agent's office.

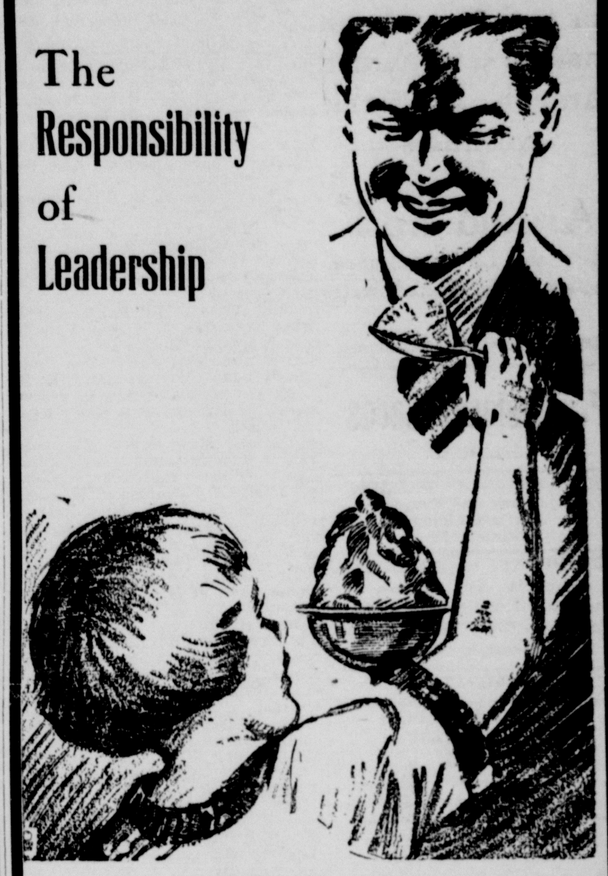
The Responsibility of Leadership



A position of leadership brings honor and prestige. It also brings responsibility.

It has been the privilege of the FORTUNE'S organization to occupy a position of leadership in the ice cream industry of the South for nearly fifty years. This leadership, of course, has been a source of pride to us, but it has meant much more.

It has meant that the FORTUNE'S products have been targets for numerous imitations.

It has meant the spending of large sums of money for new machinery, new processes, new talent, and better material in order that FORTUNE'S might be kept far ahead of these imitators.

It has meant maintaining our high quality, when it would have been easy to say "Let's cut a little here and there; the public will never know the difference".

FORTUNE'S ALL-CREAM ICE CREAM ALWAYS HAS BEEN MADE TO A STANDARD, NEVER COMPROMISED FOR PRICE.

FORTUNE'S has pioneered almost every improvement in ice cream processes, ice cream values, ice cream flavors and ice cream materials during the many years. This has cost money, but FORTUNE'S always has recognized its responsibility to the public—FIRST.

By adhering staunchly, in good times and bad, to this policy of high-quality ice cream at a fair price, FORTUNE'S has attracted to it a group of drug stores and confectioneries operated by men with the same ideals of quality as we. Whenever you see a FORTUNE'S sign, or the familiar FORTUNE'S script signature at a drug store or confectionery, you can be sure that that merchant is a man who has the interests of his customers at heart—that he stocks merchandise of the highest grades throughout his store—that you can depend on his word and his judgment.

Like attracts like. Good ice cream honestly made, honestly priced and honestly sold, will find its way into stores operated by men who also recognize the responsibility of leadership.

REMEMBER—Only ice cream may be sold as ice cream. Under the law, substitutes having less than 8% butterfat content must bear some other name. FORTUNE'S contains 16% butterfat or twice the richness required by law.

R. F. C. LOAN FOR OHIO RIVER TOLL BRIDGE AT CAIRO URGED

Frankfort, Ky., August 10.—Delegations from Cairo, Ill., and Wickliffe, Ky., have urged ths Kentucky State Highway Commission to take steps toward construction of a toll bridge over the Ohio River at Cairo and East Cairo, Ky., by applying to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan.

Chairman Ben Johnson told the delegations the commission already had decided to ascertain whether an act passed by the recent Congress authorized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance self-liquidating projects such as toll bridges.

The delegations interested in the Cairo bridge were headed by Ray Williams of Cairo, Ill., and I. N. Trimble of Wickliffe, Ky. Williams stated a traffic survey made for the commission by engineers the Cairo bridge project would be feasible.

"SIX CYLINDERS

THE HAPPY MEDIUM BETWEEN TWO EXTREMES"

With more you sacrifice economy—
With less you sacrifice smoothness

CHEVROLET

It certainly does make a whole lot of difference—how many cylinders you have in that low-priced car of yours! With too many, you're bound to spend too much for gas, oil and upkeep. With too few cylinders, you're bound to get inherent engine-vibration.

But with SIX cylinders—no more, no less—you strike the happy medium between "too many" and "too few". Everything's in your favor—with a new six-cylinder Chevrolet!

Economy? Take the word of leading American business firms—the six-cylinder Chevrolet costs less for gas, oil and upkeep than any other car.

Smoothness? Take the word of motor car engineers: SIX is the fewest number of cylinders you can have in a car, and still get built-in smoothness. And built-in smoothness is vital to your satisfaction.

Durability? Take the word of millions of owners: the new Chevrolet Six stands up! Stays dependable and trouble-free season after season. Its high gas and oil mileage stays high. Its low maintenance cost stays low! Especially after ten thousand miles, you'll be glad you bought a Chevrolet Six.

Evidently, from the way sales are going this year, America knows the facts about cylinders. Because the records show that since January 1st, more six-cylinder Chevrolets have been bought than any other make of automobile!

* * * *

In addition to a fast, spirited, six-cylinder engine, the Chevrolet Six has Free Wheeling, Syncro-Mesh gear-shifting, a new, stabilized, front-end construction, four parallel-mounted springs, four shock absorbers—plus the modern styling and fine car luxury of beautiful, new Bodies by Fisher.

HOOVER TELLS LEGION BONUS PAYMENT WOULD RETARD RECOVERY

President Hoover Wednesday sounded a warning note to assembled Legionnaires at their national convention in Portland, Ore., pointing out that immediate cash payment of the bonus "would be a fatal threat to the entire program of recovery".

SIKESTON STANDARD

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 20 | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 16, 1932 | NUMBER 101

THE EDITOR SAYS—

At 1:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Glenn Gentry, at the Emergency Hospital, is unconscious and grows weaker. Five weeks or more of intense suffering, she fought to live and wanted to live. All that physicians and surgeons could do, the prayers and encouragement of friends failed and death is at the door. A splendid little woman to pass away leaving four small children who need a mother's care. She was a believer and a Christian, who did not fear death but longed to live. It grieves us to think of the days of suffering she went through and grieves us that we could not help her when she asked for it. May the Lord receive her soul.

We wish to congratulate Judge Kelly, sitting on the bench at Jackson last week, for sending a drunken car driver to the penitentiary for two years. We wish, also, to congratulate Prosecuting Attorney Dalton of Cape Girardeau County for pushing the case for all it was worth. Now, we would like mighty well to see Prosecuting Attorney Montgomery of Scott County show the same vigor in like cases as the penitentiary is the place for such birds, and the only way to stop drunken drivers.

After weeks and weeks of watchful waiting the strap that holds the flimsy dress of "Miss America" on the billboard, opposite The Standard office, still holds, though one flap of the dress front has given away revealing the bare board. Another disappointment.

The Republican presidential candidate and administration does not seem to stand ace high with the Legion Boys of the land. Whether the President was right or wrong in calling out Federal troops to evict bonus marchers, Legionnaires feel that a great injustice has been done to their buddies and they'll not forget it.

It is pretty good evidence of how the Republican leaders view the general political situation when they can be cheered up by the report that "Pennsylvania looks more favorable".

Senator Walcott presiding over the Republican State Convention in Connecticut backed up President Hoover's stand on the dry law, and the party then proceeded to renominate Senator Bingham on the wet plank in the Democratic platform. Republican leaders are back to their old formula this year: "Anything to fool the people".

President Hoover says people must understand issues and from the news from Maine they do. The people understand that Mr. Hoover's Administration has done practically nothing for the farmer, the unemployed and the small business man, but for corporations, banks and railroads has gone the limit.

Yes, Doctor, we received the word you sent us by another person and we are not going to do it. If you would behave yourself and keep out of jail, you would not get your name in the paper in an unpleasant way, and, besides, why don't you deliver your own messages?

The United States is asking Manchuria to put down banditry in that country just because one of our diplomatic agents was robbed while playing golf—and that is another joke.

Sometime when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, we believe will get pickled, go home and eat every dern bit of lettuce in the ice box, all the mayonnaise and thousand island dressing we can find and otherwise raise thunder!

The Republican Spellbinders and Big Guns had better be handing out some real facts that the voters will believe will give them relief instead of attempting to ridicule the utterances of Governor Roosevelt. They have been promising relief for the past three years and still Old Prosperity has not been coaxed from around the corner. The vote in Maine has made them desperate and even the President seems to be alarmed and is urging renewed fforts to convince voters that he is the only salvation for the country.

A record crowd is expected and all arrangements are being made to care for them.

WOMAN IS POLICE JUDGE IN CHAFFEE

Chaffee, September 13.—Mrs. E. D. Preston, justice of the peace of Kelso Township, has been appointed by Mayor L J. Heyman to temporarily fill the place of Judge C. F. Spann, who is in Southeast Missouri Hospital at Cape Girardeau, recuperating from an injury suffered in a fall recently. Mrs. Preston has been justice of the peace for five years, and is well adapted for the office.

"MULE" CAUSES DOWNFALL OF TWO HORSE TRADERS

Morley, September 15.—A number of horse traders encamped in the local park Sunday imbibed too freely of white mule and disturbed the peace and tranquillity of the community until it was necessary to call officers to re-establish peace.

Two of the offenders were fined $50 and costs Monday morning.

Fellow Citizens Fail to Bestow Ordinary Rites On Slain Negro Thief

The singing of songs and the preaching of two or three-hour sermons were strangely lacking Tuesday afternoon when Willie "Red" Walker was buried in Sunset Cemetery here. "Red", a negro 36 years old, died here Monday morning about 9:30 o'clock of gunshot wounds inflicted by Lloyd Tate, Marston Deputy Sheriff and Deputy Constable, who drew first when "Red" resisted arrest. Officer Tate informed H. J. Welsh, local undertaker, who handled the case, that he carried a warrant for Walker when he went to a residence three miles southeast of Marston Saturday afternoon. Earlier in the day officers had found articles identified as property stolen from a Marston home in a cabin occupied by the negro and his companion, Robert Brown. Brown submitted to arrest. Walker resisted when Tate sought to arrest him for questioning.

Negro funerals are usually more or less spectacular, but Willie "Red" Walker died ingloriously and met with a strange aloofness even in death by his fellow citizens.

Miss Mag Tanner will please clip this article and call at The Standard office for a box of Post's bran flakes.

SUTTON BROS. OFFER GROCERIES AND HARDWARE AT NEAR COST PRICES IN REMODELING SALE

Once in a great while Sutton Brothers Hardware and Cash Grocery, operated by the brothers, Jake and Jeff, offer something out of the ordinary. Their annual General Foods demonstration is such an event looked forward to by many housewives. In this issue of The Standard, Jake and Jeff offer a sale extraordinary. The interior of the building is to be remodeled, and in order to clear stocks, build up a cash reserve and to facilitate the moving about of a huge stock, the two brothers decided to stage a cash only, low profit sale and move the goods.

Thousands of circulars and a large advertisement this week announce the sale to start Saturday, continuing until September 24.

Seasonable and staple stock items especially in the hardware department have been marked down to present day replacement cost, representing in many cases an actual loss over purchase price. The grocery department will tie up with this remodeling sale in that hundreds of items used every day are offered at reduced figures.

Morehouse, September 14.—City Marshal O. M. Headlee and Wm. "Snowball" James of this city declared war on drunks and bootleggers here Sunday. The result was a roundup of police characters, out-of-town visitors, and occasional drinkers who had dropped in for a sociable afternoon and night. It also accounted for a major part of the activities in Justice Court Monday morning.

Those who paid fines included. Dr. Stanley J. Tilghman of Sikeston, charged with being drunk and disorderly; "Slim" Curtis, Raymond Towery, J. T. Parris, Harry Hunter, Paul James, Arthur Shipman, Gassie Cline and Odis Hicks, all of Morehouse, and Mr. Penson of Pharris Ridge.

FIRST LOCAL GRID GAME WITH MATTHEWS NIGHT OF SEPT. 23

All home games of the Sikeston high school football squad will be played under the glare of the floodlights this year. The equipment has been installed and everything is in readiness for the first game, September 23, with Matthews. All games will start at 7:30 p. m.

Sikeston has six games at home and three away from home. The schedule is as follows:

SEPTEMBER—
23—Matthews at Sikeston (night)
30—Portageville at Sikeston (night).

OCTOBER—
7—Charleston at Sikeston (night).
14—Dexter at Dexter
21—Poplar Bluff at Sikeston (night).
28—Chaffee at Chaffee (night)

NOVEMBER—
4—New Madrid at Sikeston (night).
11—Perryville at Sikeston (night).
24—Charleston at Charleston

Coach W. E. 'Peg' Mahew has about 30 candidates out for football and expects several more to be out in the next week. Most of these men are new and unexperienced, as he lost eight regulars from last year.

Supt. Roy V. Ellise stated that Sikeston high school had about the largest enrollment in its history this year, 280 students attending the school.

Extradition Granted by Illinois For Negro Wanted in New Madrid

New Madrid, September 14.—The office of Governor Emerson of Illinois last Monday granted extradition papers for Charles Howard, a negro, formerly of this city, wanted on an assault charge issued last June. Since that time the negro has remained in Cairo where he managed a ball team.

On June 9 last Howard, it is charged, assaulted Clarence Bell at the Blue Front Restaurant with a razor, inflicting wounds on his arm and back. Eighteen stitches were necessary to close the wounds.

The negro was arrainged before Justice Hunter Wednesday, waived preliminary hearing, and was lodged in jail in default of a $2500 bond for appearance in Circuit Court next Wedesnday.

David Blanton left for Cleveland, Ohio, Wednesday night to join his room mate in school at Harvard, and with his parents tour New England before proceeding to Cambridge for the school session.

THEY'RE TURNING NIGHT INTO DAY

There will be no excuse this year for missing any of the local football games, not if daytime jobs interfered last year and in years past, for the Bulldogs play in light of 20 bulbs expending a total of 40,000 watts per hour. A view of an electrically lighted field is shown above. The first night game is with the neighboring school of Matthews, September 23.

Special wiring of the Sikeston field will permit lighting all or part of the lights at once.

MUNICIPAL SUICIDE

If municipal ownership is not a success in Sikeston, we have only ourselves to blame.

That broad, general statement is prompted at this time without calling names of Councilmen, members of the Board of Public Works, or its personnel.

To the average outsider, and by outsider we mean anyone not on the "in" of secret meetings of the Council, secret resolutions of the Board of Public Works and the like, those charged directly with the operation of the plant are losing sight of the main objective—THE SUCCESS OF THE PLANT AND THE GENERAL WELFARE OF SIKESTON.

We have no desire to get rough in this matter, but sufficient evidence is piling up to indicate one thing; certain parties in positions of power in our city have allowed their own petty, personal likes and dislikes, their own business experiences and fears to creep into the situation with the result that those in power are playing directly into the hands of those whose ambition is to see municipal ownership fail, and Sikeston citizens burdened with taxes, in order that private ownership might prosper.

Unless those parties get back to earth, stop quibbling and quarreling about ther own pet peeves, and present a united front with the ultimate success of the plant as their goal we will be forced to call names, quote facts, and generally print a few unpleasant things. This is not to be construed as threats at anyone. But we mean just what this says.

Let's get back to general principles. Sikeston's plant earned during its first year of operation about $19,000 including street lighting and water pumping for which no tax payer paid one cent.

We have here a model plant the envy of every community not fortunate enough to own one.

It is the only source of revenue outside of a direct tax for the city.

Rates are on a par with those charged by a private corporation operating here and in the district, and cheaper than many other towns and cities of like and smaller size.

The plant is manned by efficient men whose sole desire is to see the venture crowned with success.

And, this should not be forgotten. We have in this city opposition not to be disregarded lightly.

As a general rule there is some disagreement within families. Yet those families usually present a united front when meeting the public. In the case of Sikeston, keep the petty matters within the family, and let's go from the nub keeping in mind always this goal, advancement of the city and success of municipal ownership within the city. They go hand in hand.

Those in charge of matters have done a remarkable piece of work. Let it not be spoiled by fights within the family.

The Sikeston Bulldogs have a slogan which might well be kept in mind: "LET'S GO SIKESTON!"

$12 Sensenbaugh Ad Exclusively in The Standard Nets Orders for Work Grossing Total of $1235 Since Friday

"We have spent a lot of money with you in advertising our firm and various services, and occasionally I've become discouraged about the so-called 'pulling power' of advertising", said Bill Sensenbaugh, owner of a super-service station by that name, to a Standard representative. "But I want you to know that the $12 advertisement we carried in The Standard last Friday brought in to date a total of $1235 worth of jobs".

Two men from Caruthersville and one from Hayti were questioned regarding their reason for driving to Sikeston in order to take advantage of the trailer brake service advertised by Sensenbaugh's. "We read the ad in your paper" was the response.

The local firm advertised the fact that a factory representative for Lockheed Hydraulic Brakes would be in Sikeston Tuesday this week. The advertisement tied in with new Public Service Commission rulings regarding brakes on truck trailers coming under the supervision of the Commission.

Special Motor Testing Machine To Be Brought to Sikeston Monday

A. G. Hall, formerly chief engineer of the U. S. Air Service, will be here next Monday, when he will demonstrate a new machine, known as the power prover, which will test motors, showing loss of efficiency in various parts. The demonstration will be held at the E. E. Arthur station, corner of Center street and Kingshighway.

It is claimed that with this machine, it is possible to make the necessary adjustments to carburetor, spark plugs and timing by a carefully checked routine, in order to insure most efficient motor performance.

C. OF C. PLAN TO SPONSOR PUBLIC REST ROOM GETS LIONS OK

Sikeston will soon have a public rest room, especially for women and children if plans of the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club mature. The project, suggested many times by this newspaper, following the success of a similar plan in effect in Kennett, has the hearty endorsement of both organizations. The City Hall is being considered seriously as a site.

C. C. HAWLEY, 80, DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

C. C. Hawley, aged 80 years and 7 days, died Monday, September 12 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Oscar Denton on South New Madrid Street. Mr. Hawley lived in Mississippi County for many years, farming Birds Point.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the residence, with Rev. A. E. Ray officiating. Interment was in the I. O. O. F. Cemetery at Charleston with the Lair Company of Charleston in charge.

Beer Bottle Attack Lands Three in Jail

New Madrid, September 14.—Mann Walker and Clifton Byrd were bound over to the Circuit Court on charge of having assaulted Charley Prater with a beer bottle in which the latter was knocked out and is still in a serious condition. The information against the defendants charge them with felonious assault with intent to rob and kill.

The altercation took place in New Madrid Septmeber 5, and immediately after all three were taken to the County Jail, where they all are at present, the two defendants being unable to fill a $1000 bond, and Prater being in jail while recuperating under the care of a local physician.

New P. S. C. Ruling Affects Truck Lines

Dozens of regulatory measures passed by the last Missouri Legislature, placing freight carriers on highways under the power of the Public Service Commission went into effect officially at midnight September 14.

The new regulations prescribe publishing of rate tariffs and routes traveled, regular weight, and size of carriers, and name safety measures to be complied with. All trailers, for instance, must now be equipped with adequate brakes, which must pass rigid tests. In the opinion of Sgt. R. R. Reed of the State Highway Patrol, many "home-made" makeshift affairs being applied to such carriers will fail to pass the test, leading to a recommendation that first class equipment of that nature be supplied to begin with.

Capt. A. D. Sheppard of this division, met with other division captains and members of the Commission in Jefferson City Wednesday for the purpose of discussing the new regulations.

Sponsors of the movement to regulate freight traffic on highways point out that the stringent regulations imposed will have a tendency to promote safety for motorists, and to keep "wild cat" operators off the highways.

A specific regulation limiting width of carriers to 96 inches, height to 12 feet, and length to 40 feet, will rule auto transport carriers off the roads of Missouri. Heretofore it was a common sight to see four or five new automobiles carriers measuring approximately in transit on highways on special 48 feet in length.

TESTS PROVE LIGHTS O. K. AT ATHLETIC FIELD HERE

A series of tests run Wednesday night of the new installation of flood lights at the high school athletic field resulted in an unqualified OK on the entire job, accord- superintendent whose initiative is ing to Dan G. Pepper, muny plant largely responsible for the idea and its execution here. An expert with the Crouse-Hinds Company will be present to make last-minute adjustments on the night of September 22, and will remain unnight football game here between til the next day to witness the first Matthews and Sikeston.

LOCAL LABOR BEING USED ON ROUTE 55

Clearing of right-of-way and grading are underway on Route 55 AP from Chaffee south with the Richmond Construction Company as the successful bidder on this project. Work of clearing right-of-way started September 7 with a small crew of men. On the following day a crew of twenty-six men and fourteen teams started grading operations at the extreme north end of the project which is about one mile south of Chaffee. Route 55 is to be a high type, all weather gravel road from Chaffee to a point on Highway 61 near Morley. Local labor from the north end of Scott County is being used.

Taskee Father and Son Held In School Yard Murder Saturday

Poplar Bluff, September 14.—William Smith, 55-year-old Taskee farmer, and his son, 20, were held without bond here today, formally charged with the murder of Sam Willard, their 52-year-old neighbor, who was beaten to death Saturday night on the grounds of Williamson-Kennedy school in this city. The arrests were made this morning at the Hedspeth store in Williamsville.

Willard rode to town with the Smiths to complete payment on a farm purchased recently, and had about $75 in his pockets when murdered.

Conflicting stories of the two men led to their arrest.

Johnny Smith, in his first report to police, declared that he and Amber Smith on Harper to meet Willard left the home of his uncle his father and Amber, who had gone down town to purchase light bulbs for their truck. He related a story of being hailed by two men as he and Willard crossed the school yard. He escaped, he claimed, while Willard was slugged to death by unknown assailants.

Cotton Gins Report Ginning 857 Bales

The market Thursday afternoon closed two points higher than Wednesday close, October being quoted at 7.16.

The three Sikeston cotton gins reported total ginnings of 857 bales up to about 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Cotton got away to a slow start in this district due to the fact that the four-inch rain the latter part of August slowed up picking and ripening. Favorable weather in the past two weeks has given employment to thousands of pickers in the district and has brought cotton to the gins in a steady stream.

Ginners claim that the sudden opening of the crop is largely responsible for the present slight drop in prices.

WEATHER IDEAL HERE FOR CROP HARVEST

The weather has been behaving very nicely in the Sikeston district this past week with a high temperature of 86 degrees, low 50 degrees and no rainfall, according to the Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin issued from the Columbia, Mo., station for the week ending Tuesday, September 13.

Normal warmth, ample sunshine, scattered showers on the 9-10th and general rain over central and northern sections on the 12-13th made up another favorable week for crop maturity and farm operations in most of Missouri, according to Weather Bureau reports. Fall plowing and preparation of winter wheat seedbed was delayed in most central and southern sections because of dry soil, while in the southwest and most south-central areas rain was needed for late planted corn, forage crops, and pasturage, and locally for stock water.

Corn mostly is well matured. About 90 per cent will be safe from frost damage by October 1st along the northern border with continued favorable weather. Some is prematurely matured in the most northern sections the crop is southwest and being harvested. In the best in years, and in the east, where the main crop was poor, late planted corn is very good.

Pasturage and forage crops are good to excellent in the east and north, fair in south, and poor to fair in the southwest and extreme south, where some feeding is being done. Apple picking is underway; the estimate is for a ten per cent crop this year. Soybeans are being harvested, and cutting of fourth crop alfalfa started in the south; ideal curing conditions insure excellent quality of hay.

There were no rains of value south of Cass, Cole, Maries, and Iron Counties; most of this area was already dry last week. More rain is needed for farming operations, forage crops and pasturage, and for stock water. North of the Missouri River moisture is sufficient for fall plowing and planting, and for all crop needs.

The land boundary between the United States and Canada is marked by 5483 monuments.

BOARD TO REDISTRICT COUNTY INTO LARGER SCHOOL UNITS CHOSEN

The provisions of the new school law providing for re-districting the counties of the State into enlarged optional districts are now operative. On or before August 15th this law requires the county superintendent of every county to call the president and secretary or clerk of every school board in the county to meet at the county seat the 15th of September for the purpose of choosing a county school redistricting board of six members who may or may not be members of any school board in the county. The law prescribes that this board shall redistrict the entire county into enlarged optional districts, each of which shall contain an area of not less than fifty square miles, or in lieu of this area, a valuation of at least $1,-500,000.

At the Scott County meeting held Thursday this week, R. E. Bailey, secretary of hte Sikeston School Board, was elected chairman, and Mr. Ross of Chaffee secretary. Member of the board of six members charged with the work of redistricting the county include the following: Sayers Tanner, Richland township; William English, Tywappity township; R. H. Mackley, Sandywoods; W. I. Tomlinson, Kelso township; Dr. Winters, Sylvania township and Otto Bugg of Morley township. O. F. Anderson, County Superintendent of Schools is an ex-officio member of the board, voting only in case of a deadlock. Commerce and Moreland townare not represented on the board.

The essential feature fo the plan of reorganization which the survey staff is proposing is larger school units. The survey staff believes the children of Scott County can be served better by larger schools, and consequently by fewer schools simply transportation of children, and transportation of children is dependent upon passable roads.

The proposed reorganization plan for Scott County, when it is ultimately realized, would locate senior high schools of twelve grades at Benton, Blodgett, Chaffee, Fornfelt, Oran and Sikeston, and elementary schools of six grades at Commerce, Diehlstadt, Illmo, Kelso, Morley, New Hamburg, Perkins and Vanduser.

Mrs. Lee Bowman entertained with four tables of contract bridge Wednesday afternoon.

Everyone invited to the Parish Hall Wednesday evening, September 21, to a Bingo Party.

Mrs. Kate Harris accompanied her daughter, Miss Margaret, to Memphis, Tenn., Saturday, on her way to Dallas, Texas, where she is a teacher in the school.

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will have their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Dan Pepper Wednesday, September 21. All members are urged to attend.

Several members of the local Eastern Star went to Illmo, yesterday afternoon, for a surprise get-together meeting at the home of the District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Tommie Sue Waller.

Mrs. George Clark and Mrs. Al Daily entertained Tuesday with a 12:00 o'clock dinner. Covers were laid for Mesdames Frank Sikes, E. A. Lawrence, Calvin Greer, C. L. Blanton, Sr., C. A. Cook, Shirley Bloomfield, C. F. Bruton and Hoadley. The ladies spent the day quilting.

Louis J. Ballard, accompanied by Frank Kaizer, Early Bailey and Clyde Bailey, all of Carrollton, Ill., were in Sikeston Thursday looking over real estate in this section, especially that on the North Ridge. If these men see fit to locate in this country, we will be glad to give them a warm welcome and will be glad to have them with us.

LOCAL MAN HAS RARE SPECIMEN OF INDIAN HANDICRAFT

Kenzie Kenneth Baker, our local archeologist and collector of Indian relics, is home again, this time from a three weeks' jaunt into Indiana, where he visited relatives and old-time schoolmates in Sullivan after an absence of thirty-eight years.

Mr. Baker spent a day in Indianapolis, where he met and talked with Eli Lily, head of a large pharmacutical company of that city, who has a large, valuable collection of Indian handicraft. Mr. Lily presented Mr. Baker with 3 pieces which are now highly prized. Two of the bits show remarkable patience on the part of the sculptors or workmen who fashioned the ornamental stones. One piece, hewn and scraped from hard sandstone is called a lizard banner stone, used for ornamentation only, or possibly as a means of identifying tribesmen or clans. This particular stone, about 5 inches long by 2 inches wide, is in the general shape of a gothic window. The remarkable thing about the stone is the excellent proportions of a lizard, a raised figure on the plaque.

The other banner stone is called a butterfly stone, made of striated slate, a difficult material to work even with good, modern tools. This ancient artist, however, went modern, in that he outlined his subject leaving detail largely to the imagination. The stone widens out in the center thru which the artisan has drilled a perfectly round, smooth hole about the size of a lead pencil. The piece is to be worn septer like, whereas the lizard banner stone should be worn as a breast ornament.

Mr. Baker as a boy lived in Gill township between New Lebanon and Meron with his grandmother, Susan Settles for five years, leaving Indiana for Missouri in 1894, his native State.

Some day when you have nothing else to do try to find out where the Rinkydinks Club House is located in your city.

It exists, and the Club has a most loyal membership.

Once upon a time women's clothes contained more and more buttons.

Nowadays buttons have fewer and fewer women's clothes.

The system has its advantages, but hitch hiking grows tiresome, especially when traffic slows down to a minimum, or when auto owners step on 'er and speed past.

Which leads to the practice of leaving initials, names, and dates on convenient highway markers.

For instance, there are the names of Paul Sheppard, Hayti, Mo., and Ramon Mages of Old Mexico rubbing elbows with Neon Trotsky of Petrograd, Russia and with Raque Vale of Madrid, Spain.

Clyde Billops, who evidently has attended the University of Georgia, and who recently visited in Milton, West Virginia, is at home at 2638 Caroline St., St. Louis, Mo.

Billops has inscribed his notation with: "Right to me, you women".

This place rezesrved for Gent El Man Spatz and Dips.

Under th esign is a finely written line: "It took ten minutes to print this, so don't mess it up".

There are 2.7 filling stations for every mile of highway traversed by motorists in the United States —U. S. Dept. of Useless Information.

.....except the mile in which you run out of gas

Just mention "Keith Apartments" and watch Chris hunt cover.

That circus clown performance the other night, a pantomine baseball take-off, reminded us of that famous Dudley slide several years ago.

Dud lammed out a good three-bagger, rounded third, slowing down and went into a headlong tailspin about 12 feet from the platter.

Dud still turns a bright cherry red when that is mentioned.

Bill and jawbone are one and the same, so when the clown band passed, Bill and his oil truck and happened not to be playing, Bill shouts:

"Say, boy, play that horn, what d'y think we're paying you for?" and Bill received.

'Aw go peddle your gas, big boy . an' toot your own horn. It's sticking out of your face far enough".

The other day one of our critics, who happens to be a school marm, offered this explanation before a class of children during a discussion of a poorly written article:

"Well, there's one thing sure. Everyone working on newspapers don't know everything about English".

We might make the inclusion a bit more inclusive.

Why the Railroads Are Sick

The proposal of the railroads to cut wages 20 per cent, in lieu of last year's cut of 10 per cent, indicates in what a desperate condition they are. If the attempt to make the proposed cut of 20 per cent succeeds, totaling one-fifth of the wages paid by the railroads, it will not contribute to the one necessity of the times—purchasing power. It will merely intensify the disastrous effects of decreased wages and unemployment.

The railroads are sick. They admit it. The securities of most of them are a drug on the market. They cannot pay their operating expenses and fixed charges. Their executives charge the shortage in earnings in addition to the general decrease in business, to the competition of trucks, which they claim are flourishing from lack of regulation and cost of roadbeds, which are public highways, coupled with low taxes. They are devising ways and means to put the trucks on a fair basis of competition, and to meet their competitive advantages. But none of these causes goes to the core of the railroads' distress. There is one cause that is driving the railroads down, and that is their overload of capitalization. They are suffering from an overload of stock. They are carrying more bonds and stock than they can digest. To use a sea phrase, they are waterlogged.

The aggregate debt of the railroads, represented by securities in the hands of the public, exceeds by several billions the debt of the entire United States, which is regarded as crushing for this great, wealthy nation. The railroads have approximately eight billions of common stock, more than two aggregate of these liabilities is more than 24 billion dollars, altho' billions of preferred stock and bond issues of more than 14 billions. The they claim a net capitalization of approximately only 19 billions. These are the figures for 1930, whereas the national debt in 1931 was only $16,800,000,000.

With some notable exceptions, the story of railroad building and stock and bond manipulation is an old story, full of scandals. The chief aim of most of the railroad promoters in early days seems to have been to get railroads built for the smallest possible cost, and their securities sold for the largest possible price. Transfers and mergers continually increased capitalization, with great profit to the promoters. Their successors as far as possible followed their example. Harriman's overloading of the C. & A. is still fresh in memory, and the Frisco's absorption of subsidiary roads built by officers and directors and sold to the railroad at enormous profit is a matter of somewhat recent history. The list is too long to enumerate. While some of this capitalization was wiped out by receiverships, yet the bulk of it remains and the railroads are trying to carry it. They are borrowing more money now to pay fixed charges and bolster securities; but in the long run are merely increasing the load. The specter of Government ownership faces them, because the Government is supplying the loans to keep their waterlogged securities afloat. How long can they be kept afloat?

The truth is that most of the railroads need thorough liquidation and reorganization. Unfortunately, the men who profited by selling water soaked securities will not be hurt by the consequences of their plundering tactics. The public holds the bag, and the bag will have to be lightened before the railroads get down to a sound business basis.

We need the railroads. They are the main lines of transportation. The trucks should be in a measure supplementary. So we are trying to help the railroads, but lifting them out of the slough by bootstraps is merely temporary relief. They will have to face the music in the long run, whether by reorganization, drastic cutting down of liabilities or by Government ownership.

Giving them the benefit of higher rates has its limits, especially when business is stagnant and prices are low. We shall have to deal with the principal cause of railroad sickness. The core of the disease must be cut out. It is a drastic remedy, but the necessity of it is exposed by present conditions. Other lines of business are resorting to it, and the railroads must take a course of similar treatment.—Post-Dispatch.

Ridiculous and Childish?

Our Republican friends are confessing desperation in the campaign by resorting to ridicule of the Democratic candidate for President. Ridicule is the last resort when better arguments are lacking.

Senator Moses, the wit of the Senate, is rather straining his wit in the attempt to make it appear that Mr. Roosevelt's speeches are ridiculous. Representative Beck of Pennsyivania, an able constitutional lawyer, is lowering his standard by calling Mr. Roosevelt a "Little Lord Fauntleroy", on account of his charming personality and excellent manners, and declares his speeches are childish. It would not be a misfortune to have a man of charming personality and excellent manners in the White House. These defenders of the Hoover administration seem to think that everything not in accord with its policies and the program of the big interests is ridiculous and childish.

Is it ridiculous and childish to advocate reform of the outrageous tariff, which has despoiled the American consumer and practically wrecked our foreign trade; which has caused a wave of retaliatory tariff-making on the part of other nations until the world has been brought to a condition of desperation?

Is it ridiculous and childish to advocate reciprocity in tariffs? One of the most brilliant leaders of the Republican party made tariff reciprocity a leading issue. James G. Blaine advocated it convincingly.

Is it ridiculous and childish to take the banks out of speculation, the orgy of which they helped to promote and which struck a deadly blow at legitimate business?

Is it ridiculous and childish to put the banking business on a sounder basis, with legitimate credits to help business, and prevent the sale of questionable or rotten foreign securities to confiding American purchasers?

Is it ridiculous and childish to criticise the ghastly failure of Mr. Hoover's Farm Board and to propose sounder means of giving relief to the farmers?

Is it ridiculous and childish to refer to "the forgotten man", representing the masses of wage earners, who, our Republican leaders seem to think, are merely dependents of the masters of finance and industry, who have exploited them and failed miserably to take care of them?

Is it ridiculous and childish to propose modification of a system which has multiplied millionaires and billionaires and doomed millions of workers to helpless poverty and dependence upon charity?

Is it ridiculous and childish to say that while government does all in its power to save banks and business from bankruptcy, there should be effective means provided to save the millions of jobless from starvation.

Is it ridiculous and childish to urge the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which has utterly failed as a means of promoting temperance, and has brought the country into a slough of lawlessness and crime; which has enriched the bootleggers at the expense of the government treasury?

Is it ridiculous and childish to advocate the reorganization of wasteful governmental departments, and the abolition of costly and practically useless bureaus, and economies in the enormous expenditures of government which are crushing the taxpayers?

If criticism of governmental incompetence and corruption is ridiculous and childish, we shall all have to become ridiculous children. Sarcasm and ridicule are potent weapons when directed against folly, but their shafts fall harmless when directed against realities and facts. The American people, who are suffering under present conditions, are not likely to accept the substitution of ridicule for sound sense.—Post-Dispatch.

SCOUT ROUNDUP TO BE HELD IN CAPE SEPT. 23

One of the big events of the early fall season in Scouting is the 1932 autumn round-up of all Boy Scouts of Southeast Missouri to be held at Cape Girardeau, Friday, September 23.

As usual the big feature of the entertainment program will be a football game, this year between the State Teachers' College eleven and McEndree. Scouts are requested to pay the government tax of five cents, although passes will be issued for the game. An evening meal is to be furnished free to visiting boys and Scoutmasters.

There will be but one athletic contest between halves this year. This will be the four-man shuttle relay race with each man running 50 yards. Troop 42 of Morley won this event last year. Ribbons will be awarded for the first three places in the race, but points toward the Elmore Kassel cup will be counted for five places.

As last year, troops ranking first, second and third in appearance in parade will receive ribbons. Troops from Cape will form one division and those from outside another division with each group having its own competition. Five places will be picked in each troop and points awarded toward the cup.

The third point to be considered in the awarding of the Kassel cup will be the percentage of the membership of the troop attending. The number of registered Scouts on record at the Scout office will be the basis for determining percentages. Scoutmasters are urged to have all of their Scouts register for the game at the same time so that the number present and percentages may be more easily computed. The registration booth will be at the Court House Park unless it rains, in which case it will be at the Chamber of Commerce as last year.

The basis for awarding points is as follows:

(1) Attendance 100%, 25 points; 90 to 99%, 20 points 75 to 89%, 15 points; 50 to 74%, 10 points; less than 50%, 5 points.

(2) Parade—points will be awarded in each division. First place 25 points; second 20; third, 15; fourth, 10; fifth, 5.

(3) Relay race—first, 25 points; second, 20 points; third, 15 points; fourth, 10; fifth, 5 points.

The order of events:

5:00 to 6:00—Registration at Court House Park.

6:00 to 7:00—Supper at Court House Park.

7:00 to 8:00—Parade forms and marches to Houck Stadium and around inner track to seats.

Between halves—shuttle relay. Four Scout teams from each troop. Registered Scouts under 16 years of age only.

SCOTT COUNTY CORN CROP FALLS BELOW AVERAGE OF STATE

Here in Scott County, the preliminary corn crop totals 68,820 acres and the condition on September 1 was 63% of normal, so say E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the U. S. D. A. and Missouri State Board of Agriculture. Scott County farmers report oat yields averaging 15 bushels; soybeans are 55% September normal; yield clover and timothy hay, 75 tons per acre; September pasture condition, 39%; apple crop 21% of a full crop.

The Standard presents the following condensed summary of the State-wide September crop situation in Missouri:

Corn, at 81% of normal, indicates 30 bushel average on 6,308,000 acres, totaling 189,240,000 bushels. One year ago, 76%, 6,131,000 acres, averaging 28.5 bushels totaling 174,734,000 bushels.

Oats, 1,977,000 acres, averaging 17.5 bushels, totaling 34,597,000 bushels. One year ago—1,786,000 acres, averaging 30 bushels, totaling 53,580,000 bushels

Tame hay crops this year, 2,632,000 acres, compared with 2,787,000 acres in 1931. Condition of soybeans, 86%; alfalfa yields 2.1 tons per acre; cane and grain sorghum crop good.

Cotton prospect is for 187,000 bales compared with 289,000 bales ginned last year. Irish potatoes average 85 bushels this year, compared to 75 bushels in 1931.

Missouri fruit crops poor, except grapes. Grapes at 83% of normal indicate 10,086 tons against 10,280 tons last year. Plowing for winter wheat delayed in southern counties, from lack of rain, but proceeding normally in the north. Pastures are in better shape than month ago.

GAZETTE SOLD BY A. E. STEIN

A. E. Stein, publisher of the Gazette has sold the paper to E. L. Ward, Jr., and ownership has been transferred effective September 1.

Mr. Ward is a young man of several years experinece in the printing business, and in recent years has been employed on The Sikeston, Mo., Standard. He will have associated with him in the newspaper work his brother, Herschel Ward, who for several years was county assessor of New Madrid County. Both are splendid young men, desirous of establishing themselves in business in Hickman County, which was the home of their father at one time. Active and ambitious, these young men take over the management of Hickman county's newspaper, with the hopes of keeping up the high standing it has attained over a period of the last several years.

A. E. Stein, who retires after almost ten years of service in capacity of publisher, took the paper when it was down and out, and the prestige it now possesses is due largely to his personal efforts to be progressive and dependable as a citizen and business man.

The retiring publisher will get the young men started off, and after adjusting business affairs, he and his wife will take a vacation of several months before again engaging in business.

The Gazette has been a factor in the community life of Hickman County, and if the business interests and citizens give it the support a newspaper deserves, the new publisher will continue its success. —Clinton, Ky. Gazette.

VOCATIONAL HOME EC TEACHERS MEET HERE

Vocational Home Economics teachers of Southeast Missouri will hold a district meeting here this week Thursday evening and all day Friday, according to Miss Isabelle Hess, teacher of the subject in the local school. Miss Ella Moore, State Supervisor of Vocational Home Economics will be in charge of discussions pertaining to plans for the year and problems of teaching.

Friday the local department will serve lunch to the visitors. About ten are expected to attend.

This meeting, according to Miss Hess, will take the place of the annual State Convention, but plans are being made to attend the national convention which will be held this year in Kansas City, December 7 to 10 inclusive.

An apple by-product will furnish dairy herds of Northern California with a new food this winter. Dried apple pomice, the scraps remaining from dryers and vinegar plants, has been found suitable as a substitute for beet pulp, used at present in feeding stock.

The new civil code, adopted a few weeks ago by the young Turkish republic, limited the marriage age for girls to 17. A new law passed recently makes it possible for girls to marry at 15 provided they secure permission from the civil court. This is specially made for Anatolia, where girls marry young. In the days of the Sultans the Anatolian girls were married at 12, and at 15 they were already happy mothers.

New Madrid County School Notes

Milus R. Davis

On September 15 the presidents and clerks, or secretaries, of all school districts in the county will meet at New Madrid for the purpose of selecting a county districting board of six members to divide the county into proposed enlarged school districts, in pursuance, of Section 1, page 230, New School Law. Each county in the State will have a similar meeting on the same date.

This body will convene at 10:00 o'clock and all clerks and presidents should be present or be represented by a duly authenticated proxy. Other members of the board are invited. Directors will be allowed $1.50 for the day and 5 cents per mile traveled, to be paid by the local district (Sec. 9469).

The meeting will hold until 4:00 p. m., extra time being used for the discussion of questions pertaining to school administration.

Of the 6 members to be selected for the redistricting board, not more than one shall be chosen from the same municipal township and not more than three shall come from any county court judicial district.

This means that 3 members are to come from the north judicial district which includes Como, St. John, New Madrid, Hough, Big Prairie, and West Townships; and that 3 will be elected from the south judicial district which consists of Portage, Anderson, LeSieur, LaFont and Lewis Townships.

In the opinion of the Attorney General's office, the body should vote to eliminate first by township, that is, vote on the nominees from each township the one receiving the highest number of votes being nominated. Then the body should vote on 6 members from the group of eleven nominees, voting on no more than 3 from each judicial district.

A better plan would be to vote on the nominees in each judicial district separately which would call for two different ballotings in the final, the three highest in each case to be elected.

The six men elected will later meet to divide the county into proposed enlarged school districts having an area of not less than 50 square miles, or in lieu thereof, an assessed valuation of not less than $1,500,000.

Redistricting is required by law and in order to make these large districts two or three towns will be thrown into one district in some cases.

We are sorry to see this move come at this time and fear that it will not help our county very much, especially since we already have thirteen consolidations in the county.

Most of our consolidated schools have constructed expensive buildings which are only partially paid for and larger districts would require further building which is impractical at this time as our county is already bonded entirely too heavily.

The State school funds have been apportioned, the rural of New Madrid County being alloted $24,232 and the high schools $144,456 which is considerably more than the allotment for last year. However, only about 50% of this will be paid. One-third will be paid within the next week or two and about 15% more will be paid next March 15.

The allotment could be paid in full if the survey plan had gone through in the last legislature but the senators who were controlled by the rich voted the income tax down so low that the plan was only partially caried out. We noticed that these fellows who did the dirty work got a big vote from the rural sections anyway in the last election. As long as the rural people support such men they will keep right on tramplin us under their feet.

FARM CHARMS AS SEEN BY ANGRY FARMERETTE

Recently a farm journal offered a prize for the best letter written by a farm woman describing the charms of life on the farm. One lady signing her name as Mrs. G. O. T. Nothing, replied promptly, and while the picture she painted is not roseate by any means, it is safe to assume that she got the prize. Her letter follows:

"My husband has more personal belonging than 'Carter has cats'. In fact, everything on the farm belongs to him but the half dozen 9:30. But my husband pockets which are mine.

"I sit under a bunch of old hot cows for an hour twice a day, pull out every ounce of milk I can, turn the separator, feed the milk to a bunch of hogs, get milk from head to foot and don't get back in the house to wash the dishes before ache. And then the darned the cream check.

"I set incubators, sell baby chicks, raise a bunch myself, sell eggs and fryers, but the only time I'm mentioned is when I ask hizzoner' to look at the incubator when I'm half dead with a headache. And then the damned thing's mine and I'd better take care of the blamed thing.

"The farm is husband's and he can't understand why in the Sam Hill my name has to be on the deed. I split the cook wood and the youngsters carried it in the woodshed but I heard hubby telling the neighbors, 'I' have my cook wood split and in the dry for the winter. He shows his friends 'his' chickens, 'his' truck patch and 'his' garden, when he doesn't know what I have planted, or how many chicks I have in the brooder house.

"It will be three years in July that hubby bought my last dress, yet last week when I asked for 88 cents to buy a wash dress that I might be able to attend a farm club meeting, my only answer was All a darned woman's mind runs on is something to wear'. If I should get a dollar for writing this I intend to have that 88-cent dress if I'm obliged to break his darned head.—Ralls County Record.

Crimson clover is demonstrating itself as an outstanding winter and early spring pasture crop in Southeast Missouri, according to County Agent Furry. It was grown by Doc Cannon of Morley, the past year and made a wonderful growth and he threshed the crop for seed, made a good yield of high grade seed. Several are getting seed now and sowing it this month.

It not only adapts itself to the light soils better than our other legumes, but will grow on soil that needs liming. Liming is not necessary for it's growth. It should be sown now as soon os possble and lightly covered to get quick growth. In the early spring it's abundant growth, supplies heavy pasture and allows us to keep our live stock off of our permanent pastures until they get a good growth.

The Sikeston Experiment Station also had favorable results this last winter. It would be well to try a small acreage of this crop, yet this year, and anyone desiring further information should get in touch with County Agent Furry at Benton.

RELATIVES FIRST IS AXIOM OF LAWMAKERS

We can rest assured on one point and this is that if any employes are lopped off the federal payroll the great army of congressional Uncle Sam without doing any work will remain safe.

relatives who draw salaries from Nepotism is the most sacred of all sacred cows. Our national legislators will fight to the last thunderbolt to keep their deserving wives, children and thirty-second cousins on the payroll.

Yes, the silo in Washington will keep on giving provender for the whole congressional tribe, and the trough will always be filled. Uncle Sam may be a Shylock to his European debtors, but toward the kin of his solons he is never stingy. Any congressman's daughter old enough to skip rope can become a pampered clerk for her dad without ever going near his office, and even grandpa with his lumbago can qualify as a recipient—if not an earner—of government wages.

The congressional habit of appointing one's relatives to federal jobs isn't quite universal. But it's so nearly so that the easiest way to find an exception would be to discover first a lawmaker who was both an orphan and a bachelor and who had no brothers, sisters, uncles or cousins. The motto of motto of "relatives first" is held by radicals and reactionaries.—Wayne Gard in Vanity Fair.

COMMITTEE COMPLIMENTS GARDNERS ON FINE WORK DESPITE BAD SEASON

By Gordon B. Nance
County Extension Agent, New Madrid County

Last week County Extension Agent Gordon B. Nance, with the committee from the Sikeston Lions Club, H. Sharp and C. D. Matthews visited some twenty-five gardens in the northern part of New Madrid County, which were entered in the Lions Club Garden Contest. These gardens visited were excellent demonstrations of the kind of gardens that it is possible to produce even under very unfavorable weather conditions. The requirements for these gardens specified that 14 different vegetables be grown in the spring and summer garden, and that five different vegetables be grown in the fall gardens, in order that the gardener could receive a perfect score on number of varieties. Very few of the gardens lacked more than two of these vegetables having their full quota in varieties grown. Furthermore while they usually spoke of the difficulties they encountered in gardening on account of drouth and insect pests, in response to questions they almost invariably stated that they had produced all the vegetables of any of these varieties that they could use except late cabbage. These people are to be congratulated upon the showing they made with their gardens this year. This has been an unfavorable year for gardens, protracted drouths were experienced during which garden seed would not germinate. Insect pests were also more abundant and destructive this year than usual. These gardeners were no more favorably situated than the average farmer, and had no more additional equipment than is to be found on the average farm. These gardens are excellent demonstrations of what can be accomplished under average conditions.

The following are the names of the people whose gardens were visited:

Morehouse—Mrs. C. O. Barnett, Mrs. F. B. Rauch, Mrs. J. T. Self, Mrs. H. Ruby Givens and Mrs. Frank Zillmer.

Sikeston—Mrs. Rosie Toney, Mrs. S. S. Vaughn, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. H. O. Anderson.

Canalou—Mrs. H. G. Cathey, Mrs. Suton, Mrs. Taul, Mrs. Bonner, Mrs. Kochel, Mrs. Walter Moore, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Hartley, Mrs. S. T. Kline, Mrs. Wayne Wright, Mrs. Joe Schacherbauer, Mrs. X. Caverno and Mrs. Haywood.

CHARLESTON OPEN GOLF TOURNEY WILL FEATURE FAST CLASS A RACKET

Charleston, September 12.—The Charleston Country Club will be the host to one of the largest open golf tournaments ever held in Southeast Missouri on September 16, 17 and 18. Contestants from Southeast Missouri, Northeast Arkansas, Southern Illinois, and Western Kentucky are entered.

Among the best players entered in the tourney are Willebrant, professional from St. Charles, Oatman, pro from Kennett, Merriwether, pro from Paragould, Ark., and the pro from Blytheville, Ark. Among the best amatures will be Scott and Bowman, Sikeston; Sisler of Dexter, Schwab of Cape Girardeau, Kirk of Charleston, Fern, Phillips and Borth of Poplar Bluff. Edgar of Arcadia, Teal and Smith of Farmington and Pickett of Flat River.

If a professional wins the match, he will be paid cash, the amount depending upon the number of entries. If an amature wins the tourney, he will receive either a cup or golf supplies. In addition to these prizes a number of other prizes will be awarded, namely, Hole-in-one, one-half dozen golf balls, lowest score of any nine holes, one-half dozen golf balls; largest total number of "Birdies", one-half dozen golf balls, and each "Eagle", two golf balls.

A total of 36 holes will be played. The first eighteen holes will be played either Friday, Saturday or Sunday morning. The finals will be played Sunday afternoon.

They Say—Says The Man About Town

By ART L. WALLHAUSEN

This column is written just exactly as I see it. I'm not asking anyone to agree or disagree, get angry, be pleased, cuss, rare or stay sober.

Quite often it is a means of unloading steam.

Lotteries for instance. I think lotteries, controlled by the State or the Federal government, the American Legion or some other fraternal or social group, are OK.

Of course preachers and a few other folks throw up their hands in holy horror, but heck. The same preachers often receive part of their salary from lotteries, as f'instance from the proceeds of quilt "sales", lotto and bingo parties, etc.

There is, however, another reason for our hair-brained attitude toward lotteries. It keeps folks pepped up twixt the time the ticket is purchased and the final drawing.

You folks who have purchased such tickets from time to time know the feeling. Knowing the chances are a million to one makes no difference. One day dreams and hopes secretly against all better reason that the ONE slip of paper drawn from the tumbling mass of slips will be YOUR number.

After that you sort of resign yourself to a mental spending spree. Travel, a car, a business of your own, perhaps a home, clothes—all the things you've always wanted.

And after all, why not? Life is a gamble. So are women, men, and all that goes with life.

It seems to me that "thou shalt not gamble" is just another instance of thou shalt not for no good reason.

Sikeston motorists are paying 84 cents for the same amount.

We suppose taxes, rent, leases, salaries, etc., are just that much higher in Sikeston. Can't think of any other reason.

Wisdom is knowing what to do next: Skill is knowing how to do it, and Virtue is doing it. Lifted from a motto plaque in the Division 10 Highway office.

Commissioner Ferguson of Cape Girardeau dismissed the case against Theo. W. Meyer of Old Appleton, charged with violation of the prohibition law, because the search warrant was faulty under which the raid of May 25 was made. It is reported that the location of the building to be searched was described as being near old No. 61, while it should have been No. 25, but the principal defect was that the alleged beer was located in the cellar of the dwelling house, and a search warrant will not be issued for such unless there is a charge of sale, which was not alleged in this instance. Quashing the warrant did not bring back those nearly 6000 gallons which were poured into the creek.—Jackson Post.

MISSOURI HISTORY

(Floyd C. Shoemaker)

From the Walnut street portico of the Southern Hotel at St. Louis that night of September 8, 1866, Andrew Johnson hurled into the ears of a great milling crowd, a hostile Congress and his Radical enemies. Two years later words of bitter defiance against those same words echoed in the halls of Congress during the only impeachment trial of a United States president.

The occasion of the St. Louis speech was the first visit of a president of the United States to Missouri, the anniversary of which recurs this week. President Johnson's stop at St. Louis was a high spot in his famous campaign known as the "Swing Around the Circle".

Led by the steamboat Andy Johnson, thirty-six steamers left the St. Louis levee at eight o'clock that morning for Alton, Ill., where the boats would meet the presidential party coming from Springfield and Chicago. Bands were playing and the decorated boats were loaded with St. Louis people. The whole city was in holiday attire for the great occasion.

The presidential train arrived at Alton about eleven o'clock, and after brief ceremonies by the officials of the city, the presidential party was escorted to the fleet of boats amid great cheering. Sewart, Welles and Randall, members of the cabinet and Gen. Grant and Admiral Farragut, were in the presidential party. On behalf of St. Louis, the President and his party were welcomed by Capt. James Eads, who later built the Eads bridge at St. Louis. About noon the great fleet of 36 steamers, symbolic of President Johnson's fight to maintain a union of all States, which at that time reached that number, left for St. Louis.

About two o'clock, a great crowd on the Big Mound at St. Louis saw the presidential fleet round a bend in the river and burst into view. In the lead were three steamboats, the Andy Johnson, the Ruth, and the Olive Branch, lashed together. The fleet steamed by the city front with bands playing and people waving handkerchiefs and hats, as thousands looked on from the banks. When the boats were opposite Carondelet, a presidential salute was fired from the U. S. Arsenal, and then the boats returned to the landing.

As soon as the city's guests arrived, a procession was formed and moved off. Streets and buildings were gayly decorated. The parade moved from Walnut street into Main and then turned up Chestnut, where it passed under a great arch, three stories high, erected by the St. Louis Republican, and on to the Lindell Hotel where Mayor Thomas welcomed the party to the city. The crowd was so great that it was with difficulty that the party reached the hotel.

At nine o'clock that night the President and his party were taken to the Southern Hotel for a banquet. Another great crowd filled the streets and clamored so loudly for the President that he finally consented to appear and speak. Johnson had been warned by friends not to make extemporaneous speeches, for throughout the nation, his Radical enemies were watching him with jealous closeness, and would make political capital of anything he might say. But encouraged by "round after round of deafening cheers", Johnson unleashed his invective to a sympathetic audience. The words spoken to that receptive St. Louis crowd before the Southern Hotel were later used in the attempt to impeach and convict Johnson in 1868. A banquet followed the impromptu speech. Johnson and his party remained in St. Louis over the week-end, and left for Indianapolis and Washington on Monday, September 10.

Johnson was greeted at St. Louis with a cordiality and sincerity unsurpassed elsewhere. Radical opponents of the President conspired to offset the influence of his campaign by fomenting bitter opposition to him. At Cleveland and at Indianapolis, the President was greeted with disorder and shouted down. Such were the methods used by opposing politicians during what has been called the "Tragic Era" of American history.

Missouri played another part in the history of Andrew Johnson that should be remembered. When the President was tried in 1868 before the U. S. Senate on impeachment charges, seven men overthrew party control and voted to acquit him. One of these seven men was Senator John B. Henderson of Missouri. Had one more vote been cast in the "guilty" column, Johnson would have been convicted. Because of their independent votes, however, six of the seven were ruined politically. Henderson was the only one who lived to be prominent again in his party.

What Is
ATHLETE'S FOOT
Over 30 Million Americans Now Have It—
Is This Dreaded Disease Becoming a Plague?

Athlete's Foot is a fungus germ (Tinea) which appears on the feet in the form of a little yellow blister, causing severe irritation and itching—especially between the toes. This disease is very contagious and is spreading with alarming rapidity among all classes of people.

The failure to successfully treat Athlete's Foot in the past has been due largely to the fact that these germs hibernate in the pores of the shoes. Salves and liquids applied only to the feet DO NOT PENETRATE THE PORES OF THE SHOES.

Medical Science has recently developed an amazing treatment known as Meritt Foot Powder, which laboratory and clinical tests have proved will positively kill these germs and restore feet so infected to a normal, healthy condition. It is simply sifted on the feet and into the shoes.

Meritt Foot Powder quickly eliminates excessive perspiration and itching of the toes. It heals irritation and is unsurpassed for chafing and as a deodorant. Why suffer another day when this fast working treatment is positively guaranteed to overcome these distressing conditions or your money refunded?

"I NO LONGER HAVE TO TAKE LAXATIVES OF ANY KIND.... SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS HAVE ENTIRELY FREED ME OF CONSTIPATION"

The commonest curse of mankind is constipation. It poisons us, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages us prematurely, and leaves us an easy victim of countless diseases. Millions are slaves to the laxative habit. The effect of ordinary cathartics is only temporary; they weaken bowel action and lose their effect. The more we take the more we have to take.

A New Discovery

Bile, prepared by the liver, is Nature's great weapon against constipation. It is a natural laxative, antiseptic and antiacid. Bile is also a digestant without which sound digestion is impossible.

Until the discovery of Sargon Soft Mass Pills, we have been blasting out the intestines with cathartics and purges, believing that they stimulated the liver. Science now knows that calomel, salts, oils and other ordinary laxative drugs have no effect whatever on the liver.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain an amazing substance which highest medical authorities agree is the only effective stimulant to the bile producing activity of the liver known to Materia Medica.

Unlike ordinary cathartics, this substance does not shock or upset the system. It does its work by gently stimulating the liver to cleanse itself by increasing its production of bile—a more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

This remarkable medicine may be obtained from

Remember Away Back When—?

Men on the shady side of sixty will remember what a thrill they got when boys coasting down a long steep hill on home-made sleds. They will also recall what a task it was climbing back to the hill top after the hair-raising ride downward. Had to dig into the snow for a toe hold almost every step. The way UP was long and exhausting and some of the boys usually dropped by the wayside. Others by concentrating their energy and breathing deeply made the grade. Merchandising as it is today reminds one of the UP HILL climb in boyhood years.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

David Livingston, a college student and son of a doting mother, falls in love with Kitty Lane, waitress in a restaurant. While they are riding in David's roadster, Mrs. Livingston and Judge Forbes drive up. David is startled to hear his mother call to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Kitty did not tarry long after Dave had introduced her to his mother. She made an excuse and hastened into the restaurant. The lad faced the two aristocrats in the limousine.

"Who is that girl?" His mother inquired.

Mrs. Livingston was taken aback. Dave had never behaved this way before. Was it possible that she was losing her hold upon him. "That's no answer, David!"

"Mother, don't start fussing right here in the middle of Main Street!"

Mrs. Livingston was reproachful. "You had your arm around her."

"That's been done before, mother."

"What kind of a person is she to permit——"

"I'll tell you all about her, but not here—in front of the whole world. Let's go home." David was irritated.

Mrs. Livingston became demanding. "David! I insist upon knowing who that girl is!"

"All right—if you must know—she sells hamburgers."

The woman was horrified. "A waitress!"

"Yes—a waitress!" David was defiant.

Mrs. Livingston went into her act. "Oh!" She shut her eyes. Her body went limp; "Oh! Oh, my heart!"

"I'm terribly sorry, mother. I shouldn't have spoken like that."

She spoke as though with an effort. "Oh, David! You mustn't do these things to me. You know how sick I am!"

At last the scene was over and David got his mother home; but he forgot her wishes when it came to seeing Kitty. Each day, he found time between his studies and his duties at home in caring for his mother to see Kitty and take her places.

They went to the beach. Had their pictures taken in a photograph gallery on one of the cut-out camels that made them look funny and all out of proportion. They were delightful days and evenings for both Kitty and Dave.

Mrs. Livingston was not long in finding the photograph. She made it her business to search David's belongings regularly. She showed the picture to Judge Forbes, who visited her in her room, because the woman was supposed to be suffering from another heart attack brought about by the discovery.

"But I tell you, he wants to marry the girl!"

The Judge was unperturbed.

"I won't have it," Mrs. Livingston raised her voice. "I simply won't have it!" she whined. "This is going to kill me, William. I know it."

Forbes became impatient. "Stop it, Helen! Save your theatrics for David. You may need them."

She changed abrutly to her natural tone. "What are we going to do?"

"In cases like this one usually reaches for a checkbook," the Judge declared.

"It won't be as simple as that."

"It always has been."

"Suppose she refuses?" Mrs. Livingston asked. "Women of that sort are very ambitious."

"Then it will be time to think of something else."

"But what? There is nothing else—" she interrupted herself as a happy idea flashed into her mind. "William!" He looked at her inquiringly as she continued. "We could have her committed to an institution or something couldn't we? She's an immoral person—really."

Forbes stared at her in amazement. "Is it your heart, or your mind that's affected?"

Mrs. Livingston insisted, "It's been done before—with your influence—"

"Stop talking nonsense! We don't have to resort to anything so drastic."

"I tell you, William—it's the only way——"

"Don't get yourself all excited!" Then he added drily, "Remember your heart." She flashed a dirty look at him and sank back on her pillows as the judge continued. "Perhaps if we got him out of the way—". he turned suddenly and looked intently at the woman. "Is your heart bad enough to consult a specialist in Vienna or Berlin, or some place like that?"

Mrs. Livingston looked at him for an instant, perplexed by the question. She was about to speak when a knock was heard on the door followed by David's voice calling softly, "Mother!"

Forbes signaled with a wave of his hand for Mrs. Livingston to lie down. She quickly adjusted the pillows and settled back, appearing for all the world a woman slowly fading away. Forbes, satisfied with the picture she presented, crossed to the door and admitted David. The lad looked at his mother and became frightened. "How is she?"

"Shhh!" Forbes cautioned leading the lad out of the room.

"What happened?" Dave was very concerned.

"Your mother is a very sick woman, my boy." His voice was doleful. "The doctor was here a few moments ago—and—"

The lad was panic-stricken. "What'd he say?"

"She must leave for Europe at once. There's a specialist in Vienna—"

Dave interrupted him. "Do you think she's strong enough to travel?"

"I suppose so. That is, if she had some one to take care of her. Dr. Ames is recommending a nurse."

"We can't trust her with a nurse—not in the condition she's in. You know how nurses are. Hard as nails."

Forbes nodded. "You're right. But what can we do? She really should have some one who understands her. As a matter of fact, I thought of going myself, but I don't see how I can. I have a case coming up in the Supreme Court next week." He sighed, paused an instant to watch David's reaction, and then continued. "I suppose we'll just have to turn her over to a nurse, and hope for the best."

"I'll go with her." David had made up his mind. "I'd better tell mother. It will make her feel better."

Forbes smiled as the lad entered his mother's room.

That evening, David hastened over to the restaurant to see Kitty. Dot and Fred had gone out of town to attend a wedding, so Kitty was keeping house alone.

"I've got tough news for you, Kitty." She looked up with a women's intuition sensing disaster. The lad continued. "I'm going away. Mother's had a stroke. She's got to go abroad to some specialist. If it wasn't a matter of life and death I'd let her go alone. But I don't see how I can get out of it."

"Why, dear, you won't have to. You mustn't even try."

Dave smiled. "You're coming, too."

Kitty did not get the significance of his remark. "Me?" She was bewildered. "How?"

"Marriage. What do you say, Kit?"

"Give me time to catch my breath." A sudden foreboding came to her. "Have you told your mother?"

"I told her I was going to marry you. Of course, she doesn't expect anything immediate."

"She doesn't like me."

"She isn't marrying you," Dave laughed.

Kitty was thoughtful. "You can't blame her. Maybe if she got to know me better she might not think I was so bad. I wouldn't want to hurt her. If she's that sick, we musn't do anything that'll be a shock. How long would you be gone, Davey?"

"A few months, I suppose. But get this through your head: I'm not going anywhere without you."

"I'd wait, honey, a few years if I had to—all my life."

"It's sweet of you to think about my mother." He remained thinking a few seconds before he spoke again. "We could elope and keep it a secret. We could tell her when she's better." A sudden thought occurred to him. "Gosh, Kit! I haven't really asked you, have I? I'm just taking it for granted you want to marry me. You do, don't you?"

"Don't get yourself excited!" he said aryly.

"COLOSSUS" COMING TO SIKESTON

Sikeston fishermen who have racked their brains, and suffered arm strain in telling about the "big one that got away" will have an opportunity to see a member of the finny tribe sufficiently long, and large enough for any ordinary fish story. Sikestonians will have an opportunity to see a real whale, preserved of course, for two days, starting Wednesday, September 21.

The Pacific Whaling Company, Inc. of Long Beach, Calif., have their representative in town completing arrangements for the arrival of the mammoth display. For one thing, it will be the largest visitor we have ever had as the whale is nature's largest creature and always has been. The $50,000 steel glass-enclosed car will be on location at Frisco passenger depot. It was about a year ago, that the Pacific Whaling Company, Inc., of Long Beach, Calif., conceived the idea of sending an exhibit of this sort into the interior. It was received with such enthusiasm on the part of persons living inland that now several of the preserved whales are on tours of the country. Everywhere people are curious to see these specimens of the only animal in the world that science is unable to completely analyze.

The whale is in perfect condition and just as it appeared when encountered off the coast of Southern California. It is transported on its own 85 foot glass enclosed railway car and is 65 feet long and weighs almost 72 tons. Its heart weighed 1286 pounds and the tongue, which had to be removed during the embalming process and then replaced, weighed 600 pounds.

In addition to the whale, the exhibit will include specimens such as the octopus, and other marine life, and the harpoon gun, and the modern harpoon with the explosive head.

tion including Eugene is eligible after passing the Senior Degree, to work for the next step, that of Graduate. Members of that rank may apply for sums up to a total of $1500 exclusively towards college expenses, until the $250,000 offered by the company for this purpose is released.

when babies

—cry in the dead of night, when children must be fed, bathed or dressed, when there is home work to be done or mother's companionship is craved . . . the first demand is for electricity.

In order to supply the demand there must be an adequate supply of electricity. But that demand is always met. You are assured of that supply from the Missouri Utilities because of widespread power distributed over interconnected systems of transmission lines.

The Missouri Utilities Co. spends hundreds of thousands of dollars every year to assure its patrons continuous, unbroken electric service in the busiest hours of day and the quietest hours of night.
